D. J. HOSTETTER'S

STOMACH BITTERS

Dyspepsia. Indigestion. Nausea, Constipation Flatulency, Loss of Appetite or any Billious Complaints arising from a morbid inaction of the Stomach or Bowels producing Cramps Dysentery, Colic, Cholera Morbus, &c. &c.

All of these ills yield like magic toits vilifying influence upon the system, and for a person in adaanced years, or recovering from sickness of any kind, nothing can be more conducive to their convalescence than the use of these Bitters as per directions on the bottles,

Scarcely four years have elapsed since the first introduction of "Dr. J Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters" to the public, and such has been the success of this article after its tested efficacy by a discriminating public, that during the last year nearly half a million bottles were sold, with a continuous demand in excess of the supply with all the facilities the proprietors have been able to command in its preparation.

Are you dyspeptic? Then take these Stomach Bitters.

Are you billious? Try one bottle of these Bitters, and be relieved at once.

Are you annoyed by indigestion or constipation? Remove the cause by the free use of these Bitters.

Have you fever and ague? How many thousands in the West and South have been cured of this constitution-destroying disease by the free use of these Bitters!

All should try this great Anidote We venture to affirm that, when Hostetters's Stomach Bitters are used, a case of Fever and Ague cannot occur: therefore, no family consulting their own interest can afford to do without it.

A WORD TO THE LADIES.

In recommending to your use Dr J Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters, it is but just to state that as a stimulant to the system, in imparting strength and vigor, preparatory to periodical stages, which are of times attended with much pain and trouble, we know of no preparation more happily adapted to all afflictions consequent upon this cause, and for cramps in stomach, cholera morbus, and all ailments arising from over indulgence in fruits, vegetables, ice creams, &c., it is certain and always instantaneous remedy, and no family should be without it.

One wineglassful taken three times each before meals, or half the quantity in the patients are in a weak condition, and increased in proportion to their strength, will be found a great tonic agent, which all will appreciate when personally satisfied of the facts, as they will be by giving the Bitters one trial.

☞ CAUTION. ☜

Carefulness should be our study, but more particularly when the health is at stake. Since these Bitters have, from their medical qualities, become so popular, there have been a great many concoctions palled Stomach Bitters, and often represented to be the same in virtue as Dr. Hostetter's, palmed upon the public. Be careful of these villainous compounds! Our Bitters are put up in square quart bottles, and covered with the patent metallic cap, stamped "Hostetter's Stomach Bitters," and Dr. J Hostetter blown on the glass. All others are imitation.

The Portrait of a Kansas Hero.

With the subsidence of the Kansas excitement, the history of the men, their motives and character, who have represented and controlled the Free State movement in that Territory, are being developed. We present a picture of one of the hero's of bleeding Kansas, from the pen of an intimate friend; the portrait of a Republican chieftain, who had the sympathy of the Black Republican party in a pre-eminent degree, especially the moral and religious organization. The Chicago Times, in referring to the subject, says, our readers will remember that ever since Jim Lane went to Kansas he has been the constant source of trouble and strife. It was owing to his ill advice that the Free State men refused to take part in the elections, and thus allowed the handful of Missourians to obtain control of the Legislature. It was owing to his bad advice that the Free State men refused to participate in the election of delegates to the Leecompton Convention, and thus allowed that body to fall into the hands of Calhoun and his associates. In all his rascality, in all his perfidious movements, he has been sustained and supported by one James Redpath, the celebrated correspondent, during 1855-'56, of the St. Louis Democrat, N Y. Tribune and Chicago Tribune. He was the manufacturer of outrages, and the trumpeter of Jim Lane's glories. Recently, Redpath commenced the publication of a newspaper called the 'Crusader of Freedom,' at Doniphan, and to some extent Lane aided him by endorsing his paper, but not by any advance or loan of money. Redpath—who is a vigorous writer—and Lane have recently quarreled about business matters; and from the Crusader, of the 17th May, we select portions of very graphic descriptions of Lane, from Redpath. Coming from one who knows Lane well, they will be read with that confidence in their truth which is not generally entertained for Kansas stories.

The following are the extracts:

Lane Proposes to Assassinate Denver.

We are ready to swear, in any Court of Justice, or to make solemn affidavit of the fact, that General Lane intimated to us that if Governor Denver challenged him, he would have him put out of the way by the secret order known as the Danites.

Redpath's Virtue Recoils.

We thought that he could not be in earnest, but circumstances, subsequently ascertained, convinced us of our error. It was the corroboration of this intention that determined us, at whatever cost, to throw the human viper off. It will cost us everything we possess in Kansas, press, landed property and business prospects; but we prefer to be free and poor rather than to remain in the power of an assassin.

Lane's Private Character.

I knew comparatively little of Lane's private character before I came to Doniphan; but my frequent intercourse with him since, has fully unfolded it. It have found him to be a man utterly devoid of principle—without the faintest shadow of a shade of consience—unscrupulous and daring, but cowardly and snake-like in his policy. He would ruin a friend or a woman with as little compunction as he would eat an egg, and would take pleasure in doing it if it would advance his ambition by a single hairs-breath. I solemnly declare that I never knew him to perform a disinterested action, except in two instances only: once, in Nebraska, in assisting fugitives to escape; once, in Leavenworth, in giving a dollar to a citizen for a widow in destitute circumstances. He even blurred both of these acts by cursing me among his own men for refusing to take the negroes as prisoners back to Kansas, with my companies of armed immigrants, although he privately made arrangements with me to send a man from Iowa immediately to take them over the Missouri River.

Lane's Respect for Women.

He insisted, also, that the widow should know who gave the dollar. If he has seen her since and did not try to seduce her, the fact should be mentioned as a remarkable incident by his future biographer.

* * * * * * *

Lane's Desire to be President.

He wished me to advocate his claims to the Presidency. I told him that if a new man was to be chosen by the Republican party, I would vote for Frank Blair, of Missouri, and refused to mention him in connection with any office whatever. He 'looked hell' at me—to adopt his own choice language, but said nothing about it.

On another occasion he told me—the request sounded like a command—to praise him for his magnanimity.

More Assassination.

As a few weeks before, he had tried to make me the agent for assassinating Robt. S Kelly—as he was then pursuing Mr Shephard—with whom he quarrelled when he could not make him a tool—with a malignity which it would be euphony to characterize as infernal, I peremptorily refused to do so.

The Danites of Kansas.

Lane organized a Club of Danites in Doniphan County. I became a member of it. Although attend it, he attempted, on the second night of his meeting, to make me the agent to induce the club to kill Bob Kelly. He saw that my unlucky indebtedness to him, did not give him a sufficient hold over me—that some day, if he again dared to attempt to rule my editorial course I would throw my property in his face and defy him. He wished, therefore, to engage me in a criminal enterprise—then I would be his slave for ever. I never hated Lane till he asked me to do this deed. I did indeed despise him from the bottom of my soul, but I did not believe him to be capable of a scheme so diabolical—to involve a young man, without any cause, in a criminal act of private revenge. It was so cowardly, contemptible and hellish, that I left him without saying a word. I need hardly add that I did not put my neck in his halter, that I did not choose to become his assassin, tha Bob Kelly was not killed, or that Lane, after creating the disturbance in Doniphan, on his next visit to the town, entertained us with "magnanimous" and conservative speeches.

Lane's Sacrilege.

It was to be expected that the secret rioter should appear in public as a conservator of the peace; it was in keeping with the character of the man who once, in Indiana, as an eminent citizen of that State, a friend of his, who knew the fact, declared—went from the bed of a common brothel where he had passed the night, to a Christian Church in the morning, and partook of the holy sacrament of the Lord's Supper.

Lane a Curse to Kansas.

I determined now, after I had thus seen how he had intended to ruin me, to watch him with ceaseless, untiring vigilance, until I could obtain legal proof against him—not to use it in a court of justice, but privately to compel him to abandon his hopes of high office in the party he disgraces and degrades, and to leave the Territory to which his presence, excepting on two occasions only has been a great and almost unmitigated curse.

But I found there is danger, while watching an anaconda, of being crushed in its loathsome folds.

I am not the only young man whom he has tried to use for his cowardly schemes of secret and criminal revenge; and he may find, too, that he has reckoned without his host in more cases than in mine.

A Delicate Subject.

That "one hundred dollar loan," which was never borrowed—? Lane, I will spare you that history for the lady's sake. I do not wish to drive from you any purifying influence; for God knows that you need it, and he may have sent her, whom you wronged so foully, as and angel of mercy to save you from becoming yet more devilish than you now are, and to rekindle the lamp of conscience in your dark and murky soul.

But beware, Lane, beware! for I have not told all that I know yet. J. R.

Woman's Will.

The following beautiful story has been published in different forms, but none so good as the original:

Sir Hugo had reached his fiftieth year, unmolested by passion, save an ardent one for a flowing goblet. Instead of love-passion, his delight was in tournaments, whence he always returned victorious. At length he was flung from the saddle of his indifference by the beardless title love! He was Angelica, the fairest maided of the land, forgot his grey hairs, and unmindful of the incongruity of an union between May and December, led her to the nuptial altar. Fortunately, Angelica was as modest as she was fair, and her firm virtue repulsed the numerous butterflies that swarmed around the opening flowers of her beauty. Sir Hugo knew the tried virtue of his consort, and therefore she was to him dear and precious as the apple of his eye.

One morning he rode to pay a visit to a neighboring Baron in arms, his honest Squire Conrade trotting after him. Scarcely had they proceeded half way, when the knight suddenly stopped and cried—

"Come here, Comrade; a most tormenting thought has just occurred to me. This is the very day that Father Nicholas comes to the castle to say mass for my dear wife and myself, and I am not at all inclined to have him in my abode during my absence; so gallop back and desire your lady, in my name not to admit the priest."

Conrade paused and shook his head as if in doubt, and replied, "Excuse me, noble Sir, but perhaps the lady Angelico, if left to her own discretion, will do what you wish."

"A curse on your perhaps!" exclaimed the knight: "I make all sure by giving the order."

"Do you think so?" replied the squire; "now I in my simplicity, believe exactly the contrary. Take the advice of you faithful servant for once in your life; let things take their course, and give no order upon so delicate a point."

"A fig for your delicacy!" cried Sir Hugo, angrily: "what absurd fancies you have got into your head to-day! Do you think an hour ride a task so very tedious."

"Oh! if it comes to that, sir," rejoicing Conrade, "I have no more to say."

He put spurs to his horse, and rode back to the castle.

Angelica saw him galloping up, and cried in terror, from the window, "what has brought you back in such haste? Has any accident happened to my lord?"

"None whatever, my gracious lady," answered Conrade, "but the noble knight was apprehensive that some accident might happen you, if by any chance you took a fancy to ride Sultan."

"I ride—ride the large greyhound!" exclaimed Angelica, in utter astonishment. "I believe you are drunk or mad. It is impossible that your master could have so ridiculous a message."

"Ave but he did, though," paused the squire; "and my noble master said, at the same time, that he knew Sultan would bite terribly, not being accustomed to be made a pony of; and he therefore begs that you will not attempt to divert yourself in than way." Having said this he again mounted his horse and galloped off to rejoin his master.

"Am I awake, or do I dream?" ejaculated Angelica. "The folly of Sir Hugo is so strange that I almost attempted to believe it all a wild dream What does he mean? It is not enough that I have hitherto tried to read his every will and wish, and, when known, obeyed them implicity; and do I deserve that he should stretch his power so far, and play the capricious, haughty tyrant? Now I see that, to be too submissive too softly compliant, is not the way to treat him; the worm that crawls the dust is trampled upon. But no, Sir Knight, it is not gone quite so far with us yet, in spite of you I will ride Sultan, and you may think yourself, as but for your message such a thing would never have entered my head."

Her soliloquy was here interrupted by the entrance of a servent, who informed her that Father Nicholas had arrived, and was in the antechamber. "I cannot receive his visit to day," said the consort to Sir Hugo, for my lord is absent. Give this as my excuse to the reverend father, and beg him return to-morrow. With all due respects to father Nicholas," continued she, when left to herself, he shall not spoil my present ride. Now if my pony were but here. He must have on easy gait, and his teeth I do not fear; he is as quiet as a lamb. Oh! how shall I delight in this two-fold pleasure of showing the surly old fellow that I care neither for him nor his orders and of trying a pastime that is at least a novel one!" Through every corner of the house resounded now her cry of Sultan."

"Here, boy! Sultan! Sultan!"

The immence and docile animal sprang from a bone upon which he was feasting, and was at her side in an instant. Caressing him till she has got him into a room, the door of which was shut:

"Now, friend Sultan," cried his fair mistress, "no growl, no bite, and all is safe." With her snow white hand she continued stroking and patting his huge back for some minutes, and then, in the hope that if only through gratitude he would comply with her fancy, she mounted her new steed. He showed his teeth a little, in some doubt what all that meant, but she soothed him again into a good humor and patient endurance of the novel burden; but he thought this quite enough, and did not stir from the one spot Angelica was naturally not much pleased with being thus stationary; she therefore gently goaded him with her leg, but no trot would Sultan condescend; he remained motionless as before, while something very like a growl escaped from his immense and fear inspiring jaws. Out of all patience, she now exclaimed:

"You shall feel the spur then, you lazy brute," and drove her heel into his side. He now growled audibly, but stirred not an inch; she repeated her blow. This was too much for canine patience; he made a spring, and as she fell full length upon the floor, he turned and bit her hand The dismounted rider endewed the floor with a few tears, and then sprang up to turn out of the room the uncourteous brute who had thus rudely shown how little he understood play.

Toward evening Sir Hugo returned and inquired with suspicious haste whether Father Nicholas had been there.

"Oh, yes, he was here," answered Angelica, "but I ventured to refuse his admittance."

The knight cast a triumphant glance at his 'squire, and whispered him, "Now, old Wisdom, do you see the use of my orders?"

Conrade, who, as may be supposed, had said nothing of the alteration he made in the substance of his embassy shrugged his shoulders with a smile unperceived by his masters, who had turned again to his consort, and first perceived that she wore a bandage upon her left hand. He immediately inquired the cause.

"Sultan bit me," said Angelica, "and it is all your fault, Sir Hugo," added she, sobbing

"My fault!" cried the knight.

"Yes, your fault, and nobody's but yours," retorted his spouse "If you had not sent me word by Conrade not to ride the nasty, mischievous brute, such a mad trick would never have entered my head."

In mute astonishment the knight hurried to seek an explanation from his squire, who had slipped away when Angelica began her complaint.

"What message did you bring your lady?" demanded he.

Conrade now confessed the truth.

"Were these the orders I gave you, you scoundrel?" said the enraged Sir Hugo.

"Certainly not," replied the 'squire, "but you will own that I have made my point good. You may now see how it would have been had I given your order about the young priest. My noble lady is a model for her sex, and almost an angel, but still she is a daughter of Eve, who meant to have bequeathed to all her lineal female descendants her own spirit of perverseness. And we have only to remember the Lady Angelica's pleasant ride upon Sultan, to be convinced that it had lost none of its vigor in the descent."

Charles Sumner.

CHARLES SUMNER, the notorious, if not distinguished, Senator from Massachusetts, has set sail for France, just as the most important business of Congress was about to be consummated. His absence, however, will not be missed in that body, for he never devoted himself to its practical business, and was one of its least useful members. Before the unfortunate rencounter with Mr. BROOKS all that that he had done was to deliver annually a philippic against slavery, which comprised the sum total of this Senatorial duties. Since the rencounter he has been in his seat but little, upon the pretense of ill-health, but really because he has sunk into the most complete insignificance even with his own political friends. The champion of freedom, and the "martyr SUMNER," as he was called after his disgraceful tirade of personalities against the venerable BUTLER, of South Carolina, and the State which he represented, had led to an unfortunate and unjustifiable attack upon him by Mr. BROOKS, has of late received but little attention, and has lost what popularity that affair, for the time, gave him, and is as politically dead as his lamented antagonist, Mr. BROOKS. The best thing that he can do is to stay in Europe and never come back, for he is a complete specimen of an American snob, who will be more at home in the capitals of European aristocracy, whom he loves court, than he is in that of the American Democracy. His address to the people of Massachusetts, upon leaving New York, is a silly and affected performance, quite worthy of the exquisite who wrote it.—Cin. Enq.

More Republican Bribery—Startling Disclosures of Official Corruption.—A Legislative committee of Wisconsin, has been for some time investigating charges of corruption and fraud in the passage of the act by which nearly all the lands which the State receives from the general government were transferred in 1856, to certain railroad companies. The committee have just made their report, and it discloses the grossest and vilest system of official corruption which by its exposure has yet shocked the moral sense of the country. The Executive and Legislature of the State were shamelessly bought up, and induced to transfer to a railroad company millions worth of land, without any consideration therefor. The principal bargain was made with the Milwaukie and La Crosse Railroad. The report details the amount of stock and bonds given to the members of the Legislature who voted for the bill, and to the State officers, judges, and other parties, who lent their influence to secure its passage. Below will be found the sum total of the amount distributed, and the parties who were the recipients, presenting evidence that holding office in Wisconsin is not an empty honor:

Governor of State	$50,000
Governor's Private Secretary	55,000
State Officers	20,000
Supreme Court	1,900
18 State Senators	200,000
66 Assemblymen	385,000
Legislative Clerks	17,000
Editors and others	261,000
Grand total	$989,000

They were only four members of the Assembly who voted for the bill without receiving any consideration! Gov. Bashford got $50,000 in bonds. One Senator refused to accept the amount apportioned to him—$10,000. A beautiful specimen of official depravity!

Gov. Bashford who received the snug sum of $15,000 has his share of the spoils, is a very saint of a Republican, and is regarded as the great gun of his party in Wisconsin. Most of the others implicated in this startling scheme of corruption are also members of the same immaculate party.

A Mooted Question Settled.—The editor of the Rushville (Illinois) Times, under the head of "Romance in Schuyler County," answers affirmatively the long-mooted question, whether a woman can keep a secret. He proves it by relating the particulars of a romance—the facts of which occurred in that vicinity. An elderly couple had a young and beautiful daughter, an only child, upon whom they lavished all their affections. Two years ago a young man applied to them tor work, and they employed him. His goodness of heart, his amiable qualities and industry soon won their confidence. He had been in their employ six months, when the farmer, having business at Beardstown, sent the young man to attend to it, and as the daughter had some purchases to make, she was allowed to go with him. At night they returned. Affairs went on for eighteen months, the only change being the pleasure with which old people discovered that the young folks were daily becoming attached to each other, and they looked forward to their marriage as a result most gratifying. Being considered as "lovers," the young people were allowed to "sit up" together after the old folks retired; but one night, two weeks ago, the old gentleman, feeling unwell, rose up and not finding his daughter in her own bed, where she ought to have been, locked elsewhere, and found her where he thought she should not have been. Much noise and confusion ensued. Next day the farmer posted at full speed to Beardstown, had an interview with the keeper of the county records, and discovered that the aforesaid young man and woman had been legally joined in marriage for eighteen months, and she had never told any person of the fact.

Extraordinary Escape from the Michigan State Prison.—The Detroit Free Press gives the particulars of the escape from the State Prison, a few nights since, of a negro named Dae, formerly of Detroit. He was a desperate villain, and so dangerous that he was confined in a "life cell" and heavily shackled with irons. It would seem that the cell is so constructed as to screen the occupant from the observation of keepers The irons he cut off by some means, and then dug through the stone walls of his cell, bending and breaking heavy iron plates, and moving stones of upward of a hundred weight. Having accomplished this herculean feat without detection, he constructed a lantern from a tin can which he had in his cell, and went into the workshops, where he selected an iron weapon, with which he no doubt intended to knock out the brains of any man who opposed him. He also found materials from which he constructed a sort of ladder, with which he scaled the walls. He then stole a horse worth $200, belonging to one of the attaches of the prison, and made off. He left his prison clothes in the yard, having, it is thought, made new clothes of the blankets which he had in his cell. He was tracked ten miles his flight having been discovered about three hours after it occurred, and was then lost.

Perils of the West.—A New York gentleman reputed unusually happy in his domestic relations as husband and father, recently met with an accident which came near involving serious consequences. Having occasion to pass through Indiana on his way to the west, and while the Legislature was in session, he was casually detained over night in th capital of the State. At breakfast next morning, he was astonished to see in the State Journal, an announcement of his divorce from his faithful partner whom he left in N. Y. City.

Either by accident or design of some practical joker, a bill had been presented to the Legislature,

Fort Wayne Sentinel.

SATURDAY, JUNE 5, 1858.

CONGRESS is hurrying up business, and preparing to return home next Thursday, on which day both Houses have agreed to adjourn. Several propositions have been introduced in relation to the course of the British squadron in the Gulf, and much belligerent talk indulged in, but no definite action has been had

Confirmation of Gov. Wright.—We take the following from the State Sentinel, of Monday: "A telegraphic dispatch from a prominent citizen of Indiana, now in Washington, states authoritatively that the President will send the name of Gov. Wright to the Senate, as minister to Berlin, and that his appointment will be confirmed."

Health of Gov Willard.—We are gratified to be able to announce that Gov. Willard is now out of danger, and gradually recovering his health. The State Sentinel of Wednesday says:—"It gives us pleasure to state that Gov. Willard is convalescing He is yet quite feeble, unable to sit up, but there is every reasonable prospect of his restoration to sound health Under the most favorable circumstances, it will be some weeks before he will be able to attend to business."

Revolution in New Orleans.—The City of New Orleans has long been under the control of know nothingism, and as a natural result has been the daily scene of murders, riots, and outrages of the most sanguinary die. Rowdyism was rampant, and murder stalked the streets at noontide. The perpetrators in many instances were members of the police force, and in others were their friends and protegees. No redress could be had, and it had become as much as a man's life was worth to attempt to bring the ruffians to justice. The orderly citizens of that oppressed city have at length resolved to rid themselves of the curse imposed on them, and have risen in their might, seized the arsenal, appointed a Vigilance Committee to supercede the imbecile and corrupt city government, and express a determination to purge the city of the murderous ruffians who have so long committed outrages with impunity. It is to be hoped they will make a thorough job and mete out rigid and unsparing justice on the wretches, not leaving one to renew the difficulties after the present excitement may have subsided. The character, reputation, and prosperity of the city alike demand such a course, and the Vigilance Committee may rely on the support and countenance of good citizens in all parts of the country if they strictly administer the most rigid justice, without fear or favor, on all the ruffians who may fall into their hands

Westward the Star of Empire, &c.—Many of our citizens for the past two or three years have been taken off with the western or prairie fever, and gone to Iowa. We have frequently attempted to prescribe for such cases, and recommended the unhappy victims to stay at home if they knew when they are well off.—Numbers now have seen cause to regret that they did not take our advice To those who are still suffering, we commend the following experience of an Iowa farmer, published in the Western Farmer:—

"We have warm, rainy weather now; mud nearly knee deep. Everybody is complaining of hard times. Wheat is worth but forty cents a bushel delivered at the railroad, and that in rags at fifteen per cent. discount. There has been good wheat sold at Tipton within a week at twenty cents a bushel for gold. Many of my neighbors have sold their corn for ten and twelve cents per bushel and as good corn as there is in the county. Corn is heating and spoiling in almost all parts of Iowa. I have conversed with a number of owners of threshing machines, and they say that the wheat of Cedar county will not quite average, for the last year, twenty bushels per acre.—Merchants and creditors are suing and selling property for a mere song.—Some are giving up their lands after the first payments have been made and considerable improvements done. Some farmers are paying five per cent. a month for money There will not be as much wheat sown this year as last. Some are going to quit almost entirely the present year. They think it will not pay to raise wheat at the present prices, or at the prospect of future rates"

Now, we would ask seriously what there is in such a truthful picture of the state of affairs in Iowa to induce any rational man to sacrifice a well improved farm here, by selling it below its real value, leave behind him all the comforts and conveniences of civilization, the advantages of good roads, schools, and a sure and good market such as we always have in Fort Wayne, and plunge into a wilderness, where he must pay twice as much for land as he sold his own for, have to carry his scanty produce for long distances over almost impassable roads, and then sell it at such prices as are given above? It appears to us, as it must to every unprejudiced observer, that cheap land, large crops, and good prices here, are better than dear land; poor crops, and wretched prices either in Iowa or any other new country.

What land may be worth in Iowa at present, or whether it has any real value, we are not prepared to say; but previous to the late revulsion, it is a well known fact that a farm in Iowa was rated at least double what an equally good one here, with the same or even greater advantages in location, contiguity to market, &c., could be purchased for. This matter is beginning to be understood now; we hear of comparatively few cases of this distressing western epidemic at this time; and we trust those few may by good advice and nursing, and being kept cool and free from excitement, be speedily brought to a state of convalescence.

To those in the east, seeking a new location, we would advise a visit to Allen County, where an abundance of first rate land, either wild lands or improved farms, can be had cheap—far cheaper than in any of the newer counties further west. We venture to assert that no place in the west offers greater inducements to enterprising settlers. Land is cheap, crops sure and good, and above all, we have one of the best markets here that can be found, and the farmer is sure of remunerating prices, paid in Cash, for all his supplies. The many difficulties and privations inseparable from this first settlement of any new country are removed and overcome, and the individual who pitches his tent among us at once finds all the advantages and conveniences of an old and well settled country. To all seeking a new home we cordially extend an invitation. Come here, and your most sanguine expectations will be more than realized.

To mechanics and business men our prosperous and rising city also offers as great inducements as our country does for farmers. Property is still comparatively low; our city is rapidly growing, and with its numerous railroads and other facilities, and the vast scope of rich country to which it will always be the market, cannot fail to become a point of much commercial importance For manufacturing purposes it is admirably adapted; the great resources of the surrounding country, and the conveniences of exporting to all parts of the Union, point this out as a desirable location for a manufacturing town. Our manufactures are as yet in their infancy—or rather this branch of profitable industry has been almost entirely overlooked. A fine field is here opened for the enterprising, and any branch of manufactures established here would to a certainty prove remunerative. We might dwell on this subject and extend our remarks to an almost indefinite extent; but we forbear, and invite all wishing to improve their condition, to come here, look around them carefully and deliberately, and then judge for themselves.

Important to Dealers in Bogus.—In the United States District Court, on Wednesday, —— Abey, one of the Lagrange counterfeiters was put on his trial for passing bogus quarters. It was proved that he had counterfeits in his possession, and he admitted purchasing and disposing of the same; but as it was not proved that he had passed them with fraudulent intent, the jury, under direction of the Court, acquitted him! He was then arraigned on a charge of passing bogus half dollars, the result of which we have not learned.

This is truly a strange construction of law calculated to foster and encourage the business of counterfeiting, by protecting the dealer in bogus from arrest. He may dispose of it by wholesale, as counterfeit, without fraudulent intent, because the buyers know what it is, and he does not represent it to be otherwise. If they attempt to pass it as genuine, they may be punished; but the prime mover in the iniquity—he who supplies it wholesale to the scamps who circulate it—escapes scot free! Laws may well be likened to cobwebs, which catch small flies, but allow large ones to break through.

If this is to be an established rule of law the regulators must hereafter take a change of venue in all cases where they get hold of the principals—the wholesale dealers—and try them before JUDGE LYNCH. His court is more impartial, and does not draw such nice distinctions in favor of the greater criminals, but places them on a wholesome democratic equality with the smaller fry of rascals.

Naval Force in the Gulf.—The United States have now in the gulf, or under orders to proceed there, eight vessels of war, carrying 140 guns. The British have thirteen ships and steamers, and four gun boats, carrying in the aggregate 357 guns.

Dreadful Tornado in Illinois—Village Destroyed and Nineteen Persons Killed!—The village of Ellison, in Warren Co. Illinois, situate about five miles south of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, was almost entirely destroyed by a most appalling tornado which swept over it on Sunday afternoon last, prostrating or rather tearing to atoms almost every building in the place, and instantly killing fourteen persons; five others have since died, and nearly 50 more are seriously, some of them fatally, injured. The bodies of some of the unfortunate victims are described as being literally torn to pieces, and their fragments scattered in all directions. It was the most awful visitation of the kind ever witnessed in this country, more resembling in its horrors and fury the terrible elemental commotions of the tropics, than any thing ever before known in the calmer regions of the temperate zone.

ARREST.—J Cothrell, of this city, was arrested by the Deputy U S. Marshal on Tuesday night, and was taken to Indianapolis for trial. We have not heard the grounds of the arrest, but presume it to be a charge of counterfeiting.

Curious Calculation—Speaking of the amount of specie in the world, Peterson's Philadelphia Counterfeit Detector says:—"It has been computed that if we estimate the solid yard of gold at ten millions of dollars, which it is in round numbers, all the gold in the world might, if welded into ingots, be contained in a cellar twenty-four feet square, and sixteen feet high. All the boasted wealth already obtained from California and Australia, would go into an iron safe nine feet square, and nine feet high—so small is the cube of yellow metal that has set populations on the march, and roused the whole world to wonder."

DENTISTRY.—We refer all suffering from diseases of the teeth—and their name is legion—to the advertisement of Dr. Mawson, surgeon dentist, who designs settling among us. He brings the highest testimonials of his professional skill, and having had 20 years experience in his profession, in various parts of the world, he can warrant to give entire satisfaction to all who call upon him.

Professor Palmer's Lectures on Phrenology, Physiology, &c., draw large audiences, and appear to give general satisfaction. He is a fluent and pleasing speaker, thoroughly posted in the matter he elucidates, and contrives to keep his audience in the best possible humor and attract their undivided attention to the subject of his lecture. He has quite an extensive cabinet of portraits of distinguished men and natives of all climes, sculls, busts, &c., with which he illustrates his lectures. He also attends in the hall through the day and gives phrenological charts to those who submit their bumps for his examination.

Mrs. Palmer will commence a course of Lectures on Physiology, for females only, this afternoon.

By his advertisement in another column, it will be seen that the subject of these lectures will be changed on Wednesday next.

Peterson's Philadelphia Counterfeit Detector of 1st June contains a list of 38 new counterfeits detected since the previous issue of 15th May! Counterfeiting would seem to be on the increase, notwithstanding the efforts of the regulators for its suppression, and all business men need a good and reliable Detector for their protection from fraud. Such an one we believe Peterson's to be. The Philadelphia Public Ledger says of it:—"The June number, just issued, contains a perfect list of all the counterfeits, broken banks and rates of discount on bank notes. The objection brought against many of the counterfeit detectors published elsewhere, that they are merely vehicles for levying black mail, cannot be urged against this, for the character of the publishers, T. B. Peterson & Bros., and of the editors, Drexel & Co, are above suspicion." We would advise all persons to subscribe to this Detector at once. The price is only one dollar a year, monthly, or two dollars a year for it, semi-monthly.

The Weather continues unsettled and wet; the streams are high, and the bottom lands overflowed; but little corn has yet been planted, and it is now getting too late to plant with any reasonable hope of the corn's ripening, unless some of the small, northern varieties could be procured. The farmer's prospects are rather gloomy.

MESSRS WILLIAMS & HEUSTIS have commenced the manufacture of candies in this city on an extensive scale, and are prepared to furnish either stick or fancy candy to any extent on the shortest notice. Their candies are far better than the Buffalo or Cincinnati article usually sold here, and they will be sold at the same prices. Dealers will make money and at the same time gratify the taste of their customers by procuring their supplies from this establishment.

Honor to whom honor is due.—We copy from the Piqua Enquirer the following just and complimentary notice of our energetic sheriff, W. Fleming, and his associate, Mr Cummins, Sheriff of Lagrange. More than 20 stolen horses have been restored to their owners within the last 4 months by these vigilant officers.

Stolen Horses Recovered:—Through the perseverence and indefatigable exertions of the Sheriffs of Allen and Lagrange counties, Indiana, Messrs Fleming and Cummins, the horses stolen from J & W Hamilton, and Joseph Hilliard, of this vicinity, some nineteen months ago, were recently recovered and returned to their owners. Too much praise cannot be awarded these officers for their efforts in breaking up the gangs of outlaws, who infess the Hoosier State and bringing them to the merited punishment they deserve. The people of that section owe them a debt of gratitude, which we are sure they will discharge at some future day, and the gentlemen here speak of them in the highest terms, as liberal and high minded gentlemen.

Official Bribery in Iowa.—On our first page we publish an account of the Wisconsin bribery case, and now comes another report of the like proceedings in Iowa. The Dubuque Herald says:

More Republican Corruption.—We have just received the report of the special committee, appointed by the House of Representatives at the late session of our Legislature to investigate the alleged frauds in the location of the Capital at Des Moines. We had heard of the charges of dishonesty and bribery against the Republican Commissioners, or a majority of them, who were appointed by a Republican Legislature to relocate the Capital; but this report now before us makes known and confirms a greater amount of rascality on the part of those commissioners than we had even heard.

Evidence is given to show that they received as a personal and private bribe, more than fifty thousand dollars worth of property

Certain witnesses, namely, Messrs Baldwin. Scott, Williamson, and Mitchell, refused to answer and to testify to certain most important parts in the investigation, and though the Committee reported them contumacious witnesses to the House; yet the Republican House neglected or refused to compel them to testify. By this act, which it behooves the people of Iowa to notice, the Republican House attempted to throw a cloak over the dishonesty and villainy of the Commissioners.

The Shylock of Mount Vernon.—The Southern press is pretty generally denouncing John A. Washington as the "Shylock of Virginia," for having made the most he could out of his country's reverence for his ancestor's bones, in selling the Mount Vernon estate for $200,000, when but for being the burial place of Washington, it would not be worth $10,000—thereby making $90,000 out of the bones of the father of his country. Few Yankees could drive a sharper bargain than this old Virginia gentleman has done.

The New Orleans Picayune, says: There should be some recognition of this sordid speculation. Nothing occurs to us more fitting, if it were only possible, than that the ladies should make it a further condition, that after the purchase is completed, the seller shall formally renounce the name of Washington, and adopt some other for himself. It would only require a bonus of a few thousand more to obtain his consent, and there is not a Legislature extant that would not pass a law, unanimously and gladly, to legalize the charge.

WASHINGTON, May 28.

A movement is in progress contemplating the co operation of all the opposition elements of the Administration in the People's Party of the Union. The main features proposed by the organization are, ignoring all questions productive of sectional strife, the protection of popular rights, a judicious system of internal improvements, a settled and firm foreign policy, prevention of the landing of foreign and criminal paupers, the protection of the ballot box, and an intended period of residence after naturalization as a condition to the exercise of the elective franchise, fostering American genius and art. Every Territory rising into a State, to have a constitution and laws framed by citizens of the United States, who are permanent inhabitants under such rules as Congress may prescribe.

WASHINGTON, May 26.

The House of Representatives threw off its apathy yesterday, and dismissed the private calendar by wholesale. Ninety bills were passed. Notwithstanding the start, the day's business were exceedingly bad, from the objections interposed on both sides Three appropriations were also carried, by one of which, that for the ocean Mail Service, the Postmaster General, is virtually authorized to make contracts at discretion which are now regulated by law. The Senate devoted the day to the Miscellaneous Bill, which is partially a substitute for the old Omnibus, upon which everything is piled that cannot be borne by any other.

Mr. Mason, from the Committee on Foreign Relations, submitted a report in regard to the British outrages. The document is clear and pointed, without being offensive in tone, and stops short of the voluntary movement which was made by Mr. Douglas, much to the surprise of some of his friends, for investing the President with a power that has never yet been conferred on any predecessor.

WASHINGTON, May 30.

An animated debate occurred in the Senate, yesterday, upon the report and resolutions from the Committee on Foreign Relations. There seemed to be much rivalry between the representative men of the various interests, to take the lead in belligerent demonstrations, and it is difficult to determine, whether Toombs, Douglas, Mallory, Hale, or Wilson, was most emphatic in these utterances. Douglas signalized himself especially, by urging that increased power should be placed in the hands of the President—a power which Mr. Garnett, of Va., denounced in the House, as inaugurating a "military despotism."

Mr. Hale moved to amend the resolutions by a clause, declaring the offensive acts to be belligerent in their character, and ought to be resisted by all the power of the Government; and Mr. Wilson of Mass., not to be outdone, went a step further, and proposed that the President should be authorized and empowered to employ the naval force of the United States, and send the same to the scenes of the recent outrages with instructions to capture the ships which have committed, or may commit these belligerent acts.

Mr. Mason endeavored to press a vote on the resolutions, but notwithstanding all the explosions, a majority decided to give them the go by and take up the Appropriation Bills. And what is most remarkable in this connection, is the fact, that the rank and file of the Democracy voted for the latter. They do not like a war spirit, which is generalled by such heroic hearts Seward, Hale, and Wilson

The rest of the day was consumed by the Senate upon the discussion upon the Civil Appropriation bill, in which the grants for continuing Custom Houses that had been rejected by the House, and other large items, were most considered. They adjourned, leaving the bill pending. The House gave another day to neglected private claimants, and thus partially redeemed one of their short-comings at this session.

The Ocean Steamer Bill, appropriating nearly two millions of dollars, went through the House with entire ignorance of a provision which invests the Postmaster General with discretionary contracts, always heretofore regulated by law.

At present the Liverpool, Southampton and Havre lines, are carrying the mails for the ocean postage, and they must of least continue to do so until Congress could afford the necessary time to revise the system and establish it on some substantial foundation.

Correspondence of the N. Y. Evening Post.

British Aggressions.—I learn that Lord Napier has had under serious consideration the subject of going to Halifax to avoid the unpleasant discussion now going on in Congress in relation to British outrages. This gentleman thinks that his government will make a satisfactory explanation to the United States, and will disapprove the conduct of British officers in searching American vessels in the Gulf. Lord Napier, report says, was much grieved at the debate in the Senate on Saturday, expressing the opinion that it was very unfriendly and warlike character. Rumor says that opinions have been expressed by members of the British embassy, that the menacing attitude of the United States will have the tendency to strengthen the alliance between France and England, and that in the event of an attack of one of our ships of war upon a British vessel, England will promptly declare war against the United States, and will be promptly be sustained by France. It is proper to say, in this connection, that Lord Napier, has stated, unofficially, that in the event of a naval conflict in the Gulf between the two powers, and the capture of a British vessel by the United States ship of war, he would not consider it a sufficient cause for a declaration of war, but that it would be a matter that could be easily settled by negotiation.

NEW YORK, May 29.

It is rumored that Lord Napier has dispatched a vessel hence ordering the British Admiral of the Gulf squadron to abstain from further interference until further advices were received from England. The rumor is considered unreliable.

NEW YORK, June 4.

From Havana.—The steamer Cahawba, from Havana, May 30th, arrived this morning.

The English officer who boarded the American vessels at Sagua La Grange has been arrested and sent to Jamaica—one account says for exceeding his instructions—another for allowing himself and marines to be driven from the deck of the ship Grotto.

The barque Reliance was boarded off Cuba by a boat from a British steamer.

The brigh Geo. H. Chase was hailed but refused to stop and was not molested.

Advices from Havana at Vera Cruz state that the prisoners taken at Tampica by Gen. Mejia had all been shot

HALIFAX, June 4.

Lord Napier's Dispatches—A steamer left this morning for Bermuda with Lord Napier's instructions to the British Admiral in relation to the visitation process.

NEW ORLEANS, June 2d.

Walker's Trial Concluded.—Walker's trial is concluded. The jury disagree.—10 for acquittal and 2 for conviction. Judge Campbell's charge was extremely partial and stringent. A new trial was urged immediately by Walker.

Revolution in New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, June 3d.

A revolution broke out here last night. A vigilance committee in large numbers took possession of the arsenal in Jackson square and the prisoners this morning The Executive Committee calls for all law and order people to join them, and announces their determination to carry their measures out.

At 7 o'clock A M., nothing further had transpired. Loaded cannon are posted about the arsenal and 200 armed men are on guard.

The following address appeared this morning: "To the Citizens of New Orleans:—After years of disorder, outrage and unchecked assassination the people unable and unwilling to bow down in unresistec submission to a set of ruffians, or to abandon the city in which their business, their social sympathies, and their affections cluster, have at length risen in their might; have quietly taken possession of the arsenals and buildings in Jackson square, and have established there the head quarters of Vigilance Committee; pledging each to the other to maintain the rights inviolate of every peaceable and law abiding citizens; to restore public order, and abate crime, and expel or punish as they may determine, such notorious robbers and assassins as the arm of the law has, either from the infidelity of its public servants, or the expediency of the law, themselves unwhipped of justice."

For the present the ordinary machinery of police justice is superced, the Mayor and Recorder yielding up their power. They confess their inability to exercise it for the preservation of the public peace and the protection of property; and the Vigilance Committee will act provisionally in their stead, administering to each and every malefactor the punishment due to their crime, without heat, prejudice, or political bias All citizens who sympathize in this movement and who think the time has come when New Orleans shall be preserved like all other well ordered and civilized communities, will report themselves without delay at the principal office, where the character of this movement will be explained and the determination of the people more fully known. All has been done noiselessly so far. All will continue noiselessly, dispassionately, and justly; but the ruffians who have dyed our streets with the gore of unoffending citizens, and spread terror among the peaceful, orderly and well disposed, must leave or perish. So the PEOPLE have determined Vox Populi! Vox Dei!

Seven to eight hundred persons are under arms now at 10 o'clock Seven arrests have been made. It is reported that there be opposition made, in which case a severe battle is certain. Volunteers are still crowding up.

The District Attorney has entered a nolle prosequi in Walker's case.

Gen. Tracy's division of the militia has been ordered out by the Mayor.

NEW ORLEANS, June 3, P. M.

The Mayor and Council have gone to the headquarters of the Vigilance Committee and read the Riot act. Two companies of militia are engaged in making cartridges. The Vigilance Committee have established signals. Three guns fired from the Arsenal invite their supporters to repair to the arsenal to resist an attack.

Later—8 P. M.—The vigilance committee still triumphant. No fight as yet. Cotton bales have been tore up and used for barricading the streets. The city force is an unarmed rabble, with no organization or leader. The Mayor has issued orders to take arms wherever they can be found. Acting upon this order, the rabble broke open and seized weapons in Kiltridge's store. It is expected that the Vigilance committee will seize the City Hall to morrow. Bands of armed ruffians are parading the streets. The stores were compelled to close this afternoon. The vigilance committee is supported by most respectable citizens, and the municipal authorities must succumb. A terrible fight is expected to night. The gathering around the head quarters of the vigilance committee is immense.

June 4.—The Mayor's force is still unorganized. All quiet. Great preparations are being made by both parties The Vigilance Committee is commanded by Major J K Duncan late U. S. Army, and is well organized and drilled.

From the Army.

ST LOUIS, June 3.

A despatch from Leavenworth, (1st) says that intelligence from Camp Scott to the 6th of May had been received at the Fort. On that day two Mormons came from the City into the Camp, having despatches from Gov Cummings to Secretary Cass. The troops expected to move towards the valley towards the end of May. Nothing was known at the Camp at this date, of any proceedings within the City. The foregoing came by mail to the Fort. The Express man who brought it supplied the following particulars:

He left Laramie on the 18th inst. At Kearney, the commanding officer directed him to inform Col Monroe that he had information that Gov Cumming had been expelled from Salt Lake City, and that the Mormons were in arms and determined to resist the army to the last, and requesting Col Monroe to push on as speedily as possible.

This information was received at Kearney through a mail brought by the messenger to whom it was communicated verbally for lack of time.

Col Hofman's command was met 90 miles beyond Laramie He had encountered snow three feet deep and lost many animals. All the rivers were very high. The Peace Commissioner had passed Laramie, and were obliged to swim the Platte at that post.

It was reported that the troops at Camp Scott living on mule meat. No official news received at the fort.

Arrival of the Indian.

QUEBEC, June 1.

The steamship Indian has arrived from Liverpool, with dates to the 19th ult. An unreliable dispatch says that breadstuffs were dull, but that all qualities had improved—Wheat to the extent of 2a5d., and Flour 1a2s. Telegraphic dispatches from Bombay, received at Malta, state that Azimghur was relieved on the 15th of April, by General Lugard, with but trifling loss. Brigadier Seaton defeated the rebels near Futtyghur, killing and wounding three hundred, and capturing guns and ammunition. A body of rebels in the Maltpoora Mountains, and a large body of Bheels had also been defeated. Five hundred were captured. The British loss was severe, including five officers. General Rose delayed the advance upon Calpee, in consequence of a threatened demonstration of the rebels upon Ihansi. A Vienna dispatch says the Montenegrens attacked the Turks, near Grahoova, and nearly annihilated their whole force, killing Commander Kiamil Pasha, and capturing all the guns. The loss of the Montenegrens was two hundred killed and wounded. The Turks numbered seven thousand, and the Montenegrens five thousand. The London Times says rumors prevail in political circles concerning the intentions of France toward Belgium. The conflict between Turkey and Montengro is growing in political importance. Hostilities, however, have been suspended.

Arrival of the America.

HALIFAX, June 2.

The R. M. steamship America Capt, Moody, from Liverpool Saturday, May 22d, arrived at 5 o'clock this morning.

The screw steamship Kangaroo, from N Y., on the 8th of May, arrived at Liverpool on the 22d ult. She carried the mail

The political news by this arrival is of much interest.

In the House of Commons Mr. Cardwell had withdrawn his motion censuring the government for the publication of the despatch to the Governor General of India. The Derby minister had thus achieved a virtual triumph.

Another important item of intelligence is that the King of Naples had in effect rejected the demands of England for indemnity to the imprisoned engineers of the Cagliari. Naples was actively proceeding with her military defences.

There is nothing later from India.

A detachment of the telegraphic corps of the Atlantic Telegraphic Company, came in the America, en route to New Foundland to make preparations to land the cable at Trinity Bay.

Great Britain.—The reason of the withdrawal of the motion to censure the government, was caused by the reception of a despatch from Sir James Outram, concerning the severity of the proclamation, and Lord Cannings reasons for issuing it. The liberals called upon Mr Cadwell, to withdraw his motion Outram it appears earnestly protested against Lord Canning's policy, but without effect. The Telegraphic fleet had assembled at Plymouth, and would sail on the experimental trip in a few days. It consists of the Niagara, Agamemnon, Valarius, Gorgon and Perceupine. The London Times argues that the Clayton Bulwer treaty is permanent, and there is no power on either side to abrogate

The Turkish Government is said to have consented to a settlement with Montenegro in consequence of a despatch from its Ambassador in Paris stating that it the Porte did not arrange it France would formally recognize the independence of Montenegro.

It is stated that the King of Naples has applied to the Czar for a passport. He said he was fearful of France and could no longer be sure that England would contine her policy of conciliation.

Letters from Italy say that various Governments are making preparations against an apprehended demonstration by Mazzini. Rising conspiracies are said to have been discovered in several towns in Spain.

The Turks are said to have had 2,000 killed in the battle with the Montenegrians

Liverpool Markets——Breadstuffs.——Messrs. Richardson, Spence & Co. state that the weather continued favorable for the crops and the supply was liberal. Flour was dull; Western Canal 21s a 21s 6d; Philadelphia and Baltimore 22s; Ohio 23s 6d a 25s. Wheat dull and sales unimportant; red 6s; western 6s 3d a 6s 9d; southern white 7s a 7s 2d. Corn dull; 6d lower since last Tuesday; Yellow 34s; White 34s a 34s 6d.

Isthmus News.—The frigate Saranac arrived at Panama on the 7th of May, with dates from Valparaiso to the 16th, and Callao to the 27th of April. Nothing important. Advices from Guatimala state the cholera is raging with great violence in various parts of the Republic. Advices from Nicaragua state that M Belly, French Agent, is negotiating for a transit route, for which, he says, sixty millions of francs are already subscribed in France. A British steamer from Greytown reports, that on the 25th of April, Col Kinney made an attempt to capture Greytown, he having hauled down Musquito and hoisted the Nicaraguan flag and taken the Mayor prisoner. The citizens flew to arms and also appealed to Captain Kennedy, of the Jamestown, for assistance. It was granted, and five cutters filled with marines left the Jamestown for shore. Kinney and his party finally surrendered to Captain Kennedy, and were sent to Aspinwall in the British steamer The party consisted of himself, George R Gliddo, R S Tool, Thomas T Bell and A P Dresser.

NEW YORK, May 29.

Another Visitation of an American Vessel.—The bring J A Taylor, from Sagua, was boarded there, on the eighth, by a boat from the British ship Styx. The officer was asked where from and whence bound. His papers also were examined.

☞ A dangerous counterfeit upon the tens issued by the State Bank of Ohio, is now circulating. In the counterfeit, the letter W, in the line "will pay," &c., touches the inside of the left end-piece. In the genuine, there is a small space between the letter and the end-piece. Caution should be exercised in receiving the tens upon that bank.

Alarmed.—Some of the papers are seriously alarmed at the proposition contained in the bill of Senator Douglas, giving to the President additional powers for the adjustment of our difficulties with other powers, and enabling him to enforce any demands it may be found necessary to make upon them. They see, or imagine they see in it, a disposition to clothe the President with dictatorial powers; and the Post especially is trouble to understand "what the President has done to entitle him to this extraordinary mark of confidence" Perhaps it would be more fitting, since this is a question affecting the honor of the country, for that sheet to show what the President has done, that Congress in such an emergency, should withhold its confidence. Since the opposition papers, a few weeks ago, pinned their faith upon Judge Douglas, perhaps they will now, as then, repose confidence in his judgment, and believe that there is good cause for the reliance which he places in the discretion of the executive.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

☞ The U S District Court of Indiana, in session at Indianapolis, is doing a brisk business in the way of convicting counterfeiters. In addition to some already mentioned, David McNett and Robert Marshall for five years, and Dr. James Patterson have been convicted, and the trial of Samuel Anderson had not been concluded. In every case a motion for a new trial was made.

During the progress of the case of Patterson, Charles Weaver, one of the witnesses for the defense, swore that the prosecution was a conspiracy, and that he saw one of the officers, in searching the house of Dr. Patterson, place the counterfeit coin where it was found. He was contradicted by some half a dozen witnesses, and immediately upon his leaving the witness stand a complaint was made against Weaver for perjury, before the grand jury, and a bill of indictment found, upon which he was arrested.

Salmon Jones, who is connected with the Exchange Bank at Indianapolis, was arrested there on Friday, on a charge of passing a counterfeit $10 note on the Sandusky City Bank. On his person was found over $200 in counterfeit and broken bank bills, and some bogus coin.—Louisville Journal.

A Large Business.—The House of Representatives yesterday passed eighty-five bills, seventeen of which were Senate bills. It is understood they run through the private calendar, and gave so complete a manifestation of devotion to the public interest as to leave little room to doubt the final adjournment on the day fixed. The House passed the army, the Mail Steamer and Post Office Appropriation Bills. A good day's work.—Washington Union, May 29.

Indiana State Credit.—Indiana 5 per cent. Bonds sold in New York, on the 20th of May for 99. This is equal to 105 for a 6 per cent. stock. On the same day Ohio 6's sold at 102½; Missouri 6's, 84, being $4 less than Indiana 5 per cent's; Louisiana 6's, 92; Virginia 6's, 92½. The credit of no Western State stands higher than Indiana. This speaks well for the management of the financial affairs of the State, and for the constitutional restriction against increasing the State indebtedness. The Auditor issues circulation to the free banks of the State upon a basis of 83 for Indiana stocks, with a 10 per cent. margin from that. This makes the bank issues based upon our stocks a very safe circulation.—State Sentinel.

Troubles on the Border.—We are informed that Governor Stewart telegraphed to this city yesterday, requesting Quarter-master General Hackney and Inspector General Blackey to repair to Jefferson city without delay. It is supposed that it is intended to make a call on the militia for the purpose of resisting the invasion of the counties bordering on Kansas by the marauders from that Territory under Montgomery, who are reported to have crossed the line into Bates and Cass Counties, and committed numerous outrages upon the peaceable inhabitants of those counties.

Since the above was written we have received information that the Executive had sent General Parsons, of Jefferson City, up the river with a view of ascertaining the extent of the troubles, and to report whether it will be necessary to call out the military to protect the border counties from the depredations of Montgomery's band of robbers.

A gentleman just from the counties of Bates and Cass informs us that he saw more than a hundred wagons and families who had been driven from the Territory, their property destroyed, and in many instances the clothing of the women and children were taken from them. They were perfectly destitute, and the citizens of Independence and that vicinity, were making contributions for their relief This lawless band have driven many conservative Free State men away, whose property has also shared in the common ruin, and who have sought shelter and protection in Missouri It was currently reported above that Montgomery and his banditti would invade some of the sparsely populated counties on the border, and great excitement exists.—St. Louis Republican, May 31.

Proceedings Under Kansas Admission Act—It is gratifying to find the reports of bandit outrages in Kansas offset by accounts of proceedings which promise much better for the peace and welfare of that Territory. The commission provided by the act of Congress, which admits Kansas into the Union, has held its first meeting. Its duty is to make preparations for holding the election under that act, as it consists of two decided free-State men or Republicans—the one the President of the Kansas Council, and the other the Speaker of the House—besides the regular Territorial Governor, Secretary and District Attorney, there was reason to apprehend fatal disagreements in the body. It appears, however, on the contrary, that much harmony characterized its entire action at the first meeting. On motion of Mr Babcock, the President of the Council, it was unanimously agreed that the election of the Representative to Congress should take place on the first Monday of August next. A committee was appointed to report at an adjourned meeting a plan of proceeding for conducting the required elections. Everything done at the first sitting seems to have been done with the disposition, on both sides and among all the members, to make such discreet and judicious arrangements as would not be fairly open to exception from either or any side. We trust this spirit will govern at all the future meetings of the Board. Its prevalence for the last three years in Kansas would have saved that demagogue-ridden and harrassed Territory an incalculable deal of mischief and disgrace.—St Louis Republican.

☞ The individual who is attempting to make a fuss because Messrs Bright, English and Foley located some land warrants in Iowa, is one D. C. Bloomer, the husband of Mrs. Bloomer, of short petticoat notority. Poor Bloomer is of the genus henpecked. His wife must be off on a lecturing or electioneering tour, or a hunting expedition among the Indians and buffaloes, or she never would have permitted her spouse to appear in print. The poor fellow's attempt to wear his wife's pants during her absence will no doubt, be the cause of a fuss in the family. Don't treat him too harshly, Amelia.—N. Albany Ledger

Great Pension Frauds.—The United States District Court of Vermont has lately been occupied in trying various parties for frauds perpetrated upon the Pension Department. By a law passed a year or two since, lands are given to those who acted as volunteers at the invasion of Plattsburg and in case of the destruction of record evidence, parol testimony is admitted to prove the service. Under this law enormous frauds have been perpetrated. Their existence was first exposed by the fact that claims had been filed at Washington for over fifty companies of men, when the fact is known that only thirty five companies were employed at the said invasion.

One case, which resulted in the conviction of R. D. Waters, showed forgeries seldom equaled. Rolls of whole companies have been made up by his pen, and such perfect imitation of antiquated documents as to deceive the most accomplished expert, who could with difficulty designate them from genuine records of service. Waters is over seventy years of age.

Another offender is J. C. Burwell, a man of property, having a fine family. He has heretofore sustained a good character, and resides at Barton, in Vermont. He had sent to Washington more than four hundred forged claims.

A Plucky Senator.—The Hon William Chappell, a member of the Wisconsin Senate, received $10,000 of the Lacrosse and Milwaukee Railroad bribe two years ago, and was active in corrupting his legislative associates. The Senate, at its recent session, voted, twenty one to five, that he was guilty, and eighteen to nine that he was unworthy of a seat in the body. He, however, retained his seat. A mass meeting at Watertown, where he resides, held without distinction of party, unanimously requested him to resign. He refused. The Common Council of that city, a majority being his political friends, made a similar request by a vote of seven to five. But Mr C. would not comply. As this plucky Senator will be remembered in history, it is proper to record that he emerged from the State of New York. He is well supplied with brass as well as "the tin."

Terrible Death.—The Omro (Wisconsin) Republican says:

About four miles west of this village, on the afternoon of Saturday last, a man by the name of Mitchell was buried alive by the caving in of a well. The first time the earth gave way it buried him up to his knees; but such was the pressure of the dirt that he could not be got out, even with the help of a windlass. When striving to extricate himself the sand caved in again and buried him up to his waist. His brother in law sprang into the well and commenced throwing the dirt from him, but it continued running in until he was buried up to his neck. His brother in law seeing that the dirt came in faster than he could throw it out, left him to get assistance. When the help arrived they found him completely covered. After digging some hours he was taken out dead. Mr Mitchell was a young man about twenty four or twenty five years of age and leaves a wife and child.

To be Sued for Damages—The Lafayette Journal understands that the relatives of one or two of the unfortunate men who were killed in the recent disaster at Potato Creek, on the Lafayette and Indianapolis Railroad, are about to commence suit against the company for damages. It is alleged that the bridge was notoriously unsafe, and had been so for months previous to the accident. The family of Maloney, the fireman, is left in circumstances of extreme poverty and distress.

Dr. Roback's Blood Purifier.

It would seem that Dr Roback's "Sanguinarian Remedies" have taken the highest rank among the standard medicines of the day. His theory is, that in whatever organ disease may show itself, its roots are in the blood. Hence his famous Swedish cathartics, the Blood Purifier and the Blood Pills, are designed to act specifically upon the sanguineous fluid. One thing cannot be disputed, they produce most salutary effects even in apparently

Romance in Real Life.—The Bucyrus Journal says that a man living near there had his wife some years in Homer, N. Y., that they had a little girl which he gave to a friend and left the country. He was gone ten years and returned, but could find no trace of his child. She had two marks by which he might know her—one toe was gone, and she had a scar on her arm. The man gave her up as lost to him, and finally settled near Bucyrus and married. The rest we give from that paper:

About six weeks ago he happened to pass by the room in his house occupied by a servant girl who had resided with him for nearly two years, at a time when she was about to retire, and the door being open, he saw her foot. He merely glanced at it, and happened to notice that the little toe of the right foot was missing. He thought nothing of it at the time, but, after retiring, the idea struck him that it might be the daughter he had searched for so long. At first he dismissed the thought as improbable, but it still forced itself upon him, until finally he requested his wife to go to the room and ascertain whether there was or not marks of a scald upon her right arm. She went, and, to his immense delight, reported that the mark was there. The poor man was so positive of her identity that the girl was awakened, and in the middle of the night was questioned as to her origin.

She could only tell them that she did not know her parents; that her earliest recollections were that she had lived somewhere in the East with a family named ——, (naming the family she had been left with by the woman originally intrusted with her,) and at their death she was taken charge of by the Overseers of the Poor, a place provided for her, and she had come to Bucyrus with a family, and had supported herself by doing housework since.

This tallied so nearly with the already ascertained facts in the case that the next day the father started East with her, and, visiting the different points she had named, ascertained, to his great joy, that she was in truth his daughter.

She is an extremely beautiful girl, of great natural intelligence, and though totally uneducated, is at ll interesting.

She is now at Granville, Ohio, receiving an education to fit her for the new station she has assumed in life.

Swindling in Tennessee.—Mention has been made by the Nashville News that frauds of gross character had just been discovered there, as the acts of persons of high position and of official connection. The Gallatin paper of the 22d is more specific, saying that the defalcations run up to vast sums. The chief defaulter is the Secretary of State, Dr T N W Burton, who has "vamosed." The clerk of the Controller's office, also, is charged with stuffing his pockets with coupons whenever he was in want of small change. The coupons were lying about "loose," it is said, begging to be booked. Dr Burton has heretofore borne an irreproachable character, and his lapse will be a source of great mortification to his family and friends. It is attributed to fast living and the toils of gambling.

More Swindles Stopped.—By a recent decision of the Postmaster General, all letters addressed to persons or firms known to be fictitious are to be at once forwarded to the Dead Letter Office, instead of being delivered to any person professing to represent the fictitious concern. All communications addressed to C E Todd & Co., Huntington & Co., Dr H James, the "Retired Physician," Monnett & Co., Dr Wallace, Dr Le Brun, Dr De Lorme, and a number of other bogus lottery, quack medicine, and obscene publication swindlers, will hereafter be sent at once to Washington, and the money they may contain returned to the senders.—New York Tribune.

The Revivals and the Abolitionists.—At the anniversary of the Abolition societies in New York, the following resolution was passed unanimously:

Resolved, That the "revival of religion," which has swept over the country with contagious rapidity during the last three months, is manifestly delusive and spurious, exceptional cases to the contrary notwithstanding, because it has expressly excluded the millions in bondage from all consideration—has multiplied its converts as readily at the South as at the North—has excited no opposition in the midst of universal, all abounding corruption and profligacy—has received the sanction and co operation of the most pro slavery divines and journals in the land—has operated (as it was evidently designed) to strengthen a church which is "the bulwark of slavery," and to divert attention from the work of practical righteousness.

Nebuchadnezzar's Hunting Diary.—A correspondent of the Northern Ensign says a book is shortly to be published by Colonel Rawlinson upon further discoveries he has made. He found Nebuchadnezzar's Hunting Diary, with notes, and here and there a portrait of his dogs, sketched by himself, with his name under it. He mentions in it having been ill, and while he was delirous he thought he had been out to graze like beasts of the fields. Is not this a wonderful corroboration of scripture? Rawlinson also found a pot of preserves, in an excellent state, and gave some to the Queen to taste. How little Nebuchadnezzar's cook dreamed, when making them, that twenty-five centuries after, the Queen of England would eat some of the identical preserves which figured at her master's table.

Died.—On the morning of the 12th inst., Fannie Elcsia, youngest daughter of Dr. James N. Banks, aged 4 years and five months.

In connection with the above announcement there is an incident of sad and toughing interest. On rising from her bed in the morning, the child, without anything to call her attention to the subject, went to her father (whose wife recently died) and looking up to his face said: "Pa, I want to go where mamma is?" Her father replied so as to divert her mind to other subjects, and the morning passed on as usual. The child went to her play and was seen between nine and ten o'clock sweeping with a little broom in the door yard. About ten o'clock she was missed.

Search was made for her by the other members of the household, who not finding her, sent word to the Doctor who had gone to his office. He went immediately home and searched for the missing child. Observing the broom lying by a cistern, the cover of which was partly removed, search was made in the water for her body, and after several efforts it was there found. The body was taken out but little Elcsia had gone "where mamma is?"—Chicago Times.

Tapped too Low.—Mose is a good judge of human nature, and, in describing men and things, makes use of many quite original figures of speech some of which are more remarkable for force than for grace or elegance. Somebody, on one occasion, was praising a young lawyer as "a d ——ish smart fellow," and asked Mose if he didn't think he was about the tongueist man in the country? "Yes" said Mose, "smart talking man, but tapped too low." "What do you mean by that, Mose?" "Why just this—if you tap a barrel of cider too near the bottom, it always runs emptins.' That man was tapped too low."

Is that So?—The Baptist Examiner says that sixty per cent of the money raised for charitable and religious purposes is used in 'office expenses,' in paying the salaries of those who collect money If that be so, it will be seen that out of every hundred dollars donated for the benefit of the heathen of Central Africa, sixty dollars are spent in the United States. Does not this look a little like robbery.

☞ Carefully compiled statistics show that twenty eight thousand five hundred and thirty one "laborers"—negroes, coolies and Yucatan Indians—were set on shore in Cuba since 1853, and that four thousand eight hundred and four unfortunates lost their lives in transitu—a mortality of sixteen and one fourth per cent. on the gross number delivered.

Insurance Failures.—The New York Insurance Monitor, announces the failure of the following named Insurance Companies: Star of Ogdensburg, New York; Western of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; Garden City, Mercantile, and Chicago Mutual, of Chicago, Illinois.

☞ Sprinkle your Gooseberry bushes with soap suds; it prevents blight, destroys insects that are apt to infest the bushes, and make them grow rapidly and bear extensively. The same applied on on currant bushes is beneficial.

☞ At a late duel a second interfered, and proposed that the combatants should shake hands. To this the other appeared to object as unnecessary, "for said he, their hands have been shaking this half hour."

PILES! PILES! PILES!!

This hitherto intractable disease, of every form and in every stage,

CURED BY EXTERNAL APPLICATION ONLY

Dr. Cavanaugh's

PILE SALVE

WILL never fail in giving immediate relief, and positively curing the worst and most obstinate case of Hemorrhoids or Piles. It is the here or elsewhere for the Piles, and the result of years of patient study and investigations.

Sufferers from Piles now have a remedy at hand which will

without the fair of failure on its part to do all the proprietor claims for it,

Full directions accompanying each box; and all that is requisite is strictly to observe them, and a cure is certain to follow.

The proprietor refers to the following testimonials from gentlemen of character and standing, who have voluntarily given their certificates in its favor in regard to its efficacy in their own cases. Read them.

The following is from one of the most reliable citizens of Chicago, the late Treasurer of Cook County Illinois:

Chicago, July 25, 1855.

Dr. Cavanaugh:—Dear Sir,—I wish hereby to make known to the afflicted that I have been troubled with the Piles for twenty years and upwards, and at times most severely. And during a recent and exceedingly painful attack a friend procured a box of your Salve, and asked me to give it a trial. I did so; not however with the expectation of benefiting my disease, for truly, I had tried so many applications I had lost confidence in all. But in making use of your Salve, I soon found that is was doing me good; and really it is incredible to myself, that with only about two weeks' use of your Salve, I am so far as I can judge a well man.

I most cheerfully make this statement, believing it due both to yourself and such as may be afflicted with this most painful and trying disease. I do not hesitate to say that I consider your preparation an invaluable remedy for the Piles.

Most sincerely yours, N. N. HEALD.

The Hon Richard Yates, late member of Congress from the Springfield, Ill., district, says:

Jacksonville, Ill., Nov. 15. 1855.

Dr. Thos. H. Cavanaugh.—Dear Sir,—The preparation, Cavanaugh's Pile Salve, which you furnished, I found of great service, producing an easy and speedy cure. I do not hesitate to recommend it as an invaluable remedy for the Piles.

Respectfully, RICHARD YATES.

THE GREATEST

MEDICAL DISCOVERY

OF THE AGE.

Mr. KENNEDY, of Roxbury, has discovered in one of our common Pasture Weeds, a remedy that cures

Every Kind of Humor,

FROM

The worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple

TWO bottles are warranted to cure a nursing sore mouth.

One to three bottles will cure the worst kind of pimples on the face.

Two bottles are warranted to cure the worst canker in the stomach.

Three or five bottles are warranted to cure the worst kind of Erysipelas.

One or two bottles are warranted to cure all humor in the eyes.

Two bottles are warranted to cure running of the ears and blotches among the hair.

Four to six bottles are warranted to cure corrupt and running ulcers.

One bottle will cure scaly eruptions of the kin.

Two or three bottles are warranted to cure the worst kind of ringworm.

Two or three bottles are warranted to cure the most desperate case of rheumatism.

Three to four bottles are warranted to cure salt rheum.

Five to eight bottles will cure the worst case of scrofula,

One to three bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of dyspepsia. I know from the experience of thousands that it was caused by a canker in the stomach.

One or two bottles are warranted to cure sick headache.

One to two bottles are warranted to regulate a costive state of the bowels.

One to two bottles will regulate all derangement of the kidneys.

Four to six bottles have cured the worst cases of dropsy.

One to three bottles has cured the worst case of piles; a relief is always experienced. What a mercy to get relief in such excruciating disease!

Since its first discovery. I have from time to time added various other herbs to it; of one of them, Hippocrates, the Father of Medicine, says: "It is an herb of Jupiter, and in the sign Leo.

"It openeth obstructions of the liver, gall and spleen; it is an especial friend to the liver, worth all other herbs put together; cooling it when too hot, and warming it when too cold.

"It cureteth an appetite, cureth all pains and inkling feelings in the pit of the stomach, easeth all pains and stitches in the side.

"It cureth the jaundice by opening the gall, and restoreth the native color of the body.

"It expels all raw, vicious and slimy humors out of the body; it cleanseth all inward ulcers and congealed blood from the kidneys.

"By opening all obstructions of the spleen, it purgeth all burnt choler and melancholy vapors which riseth to the head and brain, causing dizzines ing headache, fearful foreboding of trouble trembling of the heart, fainting and swooning.

"The herb boiled in wine is particularly good to revive the drooping spirits of the aged, and whoever has a lingering sickness after a fever, nothing restoreth him to health so quick as drinking the juice of this herb.

"The seeds boiled in water cureth the most offensive breath, and, drank at bedtime, preventeth what is commonly called nightmare, and all melancholy dreams, a disease billious people are liable to.

The Father of Medicine says of another herb in this composition, that "it is an herb of the Sun, and in the sign of Leo.

"The sun is the source of all life, and ruleth the heart; and this herb is the best cordial, the greatest strengthener of the heart of any that grows; it comforteth the heart, cureth all palpitation thereof, taketh away trembling, fainting and smoothering of it; yet it must be take carefully, or severe gripings will ensue, which must be corrected with fennel seed or ginger.

"So much for this herb, between which and the adder there is the utmost antipathy, so much so that the adder will not touch him that has the herb about him."

☞ No change of diet ever necessary—eat the best you can get and enough of it.

DIRECTIONS FOR USE Adults, one table spoonful per day;—Children over ten years, dessert spoonful;—Children from five to eight years, tea spoonful. As no directions can be applicable to all constitutions, take sufficient to operate od the bowels twice a day.

Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Nausea, Constipation Flatulency, Loss of Appetite or any Billious Complaints arising from a morbid inaction of the Stomach or Bowels producing Cramps, Dysentery, Colic, Cholera Morbus, &c. &c.

All of these ills yield like magic toits vilifying influence upon the system, and for a person in advanced years, or recovering from sickness of any kind, nothing can be more conducive to their convalescence than the use of these Bitters as per directions on the bottles,

Scarcely four years have elapsed since the first introduction of "Dr. J Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters" to the public, and such has been the success of this article after its tested efficacy by a discriminating public, that during the last year nearly half a million bottles were sold, with a continuous demand in excess of the supply with all the facilities the proprietors have been able to command in its preparation.

Are you dyspeptic? Then take these Stomach Bitters.

Are you billious? Try one bottle of these Bitters, and be relieved at once.

Are you annoyed by indigestion or constipation? Remove the cause by the free use of these Bitters.

Have you fever and ague? How many thousands in the West and South have been cured of this constitution destroying disease by the free use of these Bitters!

All should try this great Anidote. We venture to affirm that, when Hostetters's Stomach Bitters are used, a case of Fever and Ague cannot occur: therefore, no family consulting their own interest can afford to do without it.

A WORD TO THE LADIES.

Inrecommending to your use Dr J Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters, it is but just to state that as a stimulant to the system, in imparting strength and vigor, preparatory to periodical stages, which are of times attended with much pain and trouble, we know of no preperation more happily adapted to all afflictions consequent upon this cause, and for cramps in stomach, cholera morbus, and all ailments arising from over indulgence in fruits, vegetables, ice creams, &c., it is certain and always instantaneous remedy; and no family should be without it.

One wineglassful taken three times each before meals, at half the quantity for patients are in a weak condition, and increased in proportion to their strength, will be found a great tonic agent, which all will appreciate when personally satisfied of the facts, as they will be by giving the Bitters one trial.

☞ CAUTION ☜

Carefulness should be our study; but more particularly when the health is at stake. Since these Bitters have, from their medical qualities, become so popular, there have been a great many concoctions called Stomach Bitters, and often represented to be the same in virtue as Dr. Hostetter's, palmed upon the public. Be careful of these villainous compounds! Our Bitters are put up in square quart bottles, and covered with the patent metallic cap, stamped "Hostetter's Stomach Bitters," and Dr. J Hostetter blown on the glass. All others are imitation.

The Portrait of a Kansas Hero.

With the subsidence of the Kansas excitement, the history of the men, their motivss and character, who have represented and controlled the Free State movement in that Territory, are being developed. We present a picture of one of the hero's of bleeding Kansas, from the pen of an intimate friend; the portrait of a Republican chieftain, who had the sympathy of the Black Republican party in a pre-eminent degree, especially the moral and religious organization. The Chicago Times, in referring to the subject, says, our readers will remember that ever since Jim Lane went to Kansas he has been the constant source of trouble and strife. It was owing to his ill advice that the Free State men refused to take part in the elections, and thus allowed the handful of Missourians to obtain control of the Legislature. It was owing to his bad advice that the Free State men refused to participate in the election of delegates to the Lecompton Convention, and thus allowed that body to fall into the hands of Calhoun and his associates. In all his rascality, in all his perfidious movements, he has been sustained and supported by one James Redpath, the celebrated correspondent, during 1855-'56, of the St. Louis Democrat, N Y. Tribune and Chicago Tribune. He was the manufacturer of outrages, and the trumpeter of Jim Lane's glories. Recently, Redpath commenced the publication of a newspaper called the 'Crusader of Freedom,' at Doniphan, and to some extent Lane aided him by endorsing his paper, but not by any advance or loan of money. Redpath—who is a vigorous writer—and Lane have recently quarreled about business matters; and from the Crusader, of the 17th May, we select portions of very graphic descriptions of Lane, from Redpath. Coming from one who knows Lane well, they will be read with that confidence in their truth which is not generally entertained for Kansas stories.

The following are the extracts:

Lane Proposes to Assassinate Denver.

We are ready to swear, in any Court of Justice, or to make solemn affidivit of the fact, that General Lane intimated to us that if Governor Denver challenged him, he would have him put out of the way by the secret order known as the Danites.

Redpath's Virtue Recoils.

We thought that he could not be in earnest, but circumstances, subsequently ascertained, convinced us of our error. It was the corroboration of this intention that determined us, at whatever cost, to throw the human viper off. It will cost us everything we possess in Kansas, press, landed property and business prospects; but we prefer to be free and poor rather than to remain in the power of an assassin.

Lane's Private Character.

I knew comparatively little of Lane's private character before I came to Doniphan; but my frequent intercourse with him since, has fully unfolded it. It have found him to be a man utterly devoid of principle—without the faintest shadow of a shade of conscience—unscrupulous and daring, but cowardly and snake-like in his policy. He would ruin a friend or a woman with as little compunction as he would eat an egg, and would take pleasure in doing it, if it would advance his ambition by a single hairs-breath. I solemnly declare that I never knew him to perform a disinterested action, except in two instances only: once, in Nebraska, in assisting fugitives to escape; once, in Leavenworth, in giving a dollar to a citizen for a widow in destitute circumstances. He even blurred both of these acts by cursing me among his own men for refusing to take the negroes as prisoners back to Kansas, with my companies of armed immigrants, although he privately made arrangements with me to send a man from Iowa immediately to take them over the Missouri River.

Lane's Respect for Women.

He insisted, also, that the widow should know who gave the dollar. If he has seen her since and did not try to seduce her, the fact should be mentioned as a remarkable incident by his future biographer.

* * * * * * *

Lane's Desire to be President.

He wished me to advocate his claims to the Presidency. I told him that if a new man was to be chosen by the Republican party, I would vote for Frank Blair, of Missouri, and refused to mention him in connection with any office whatever. He 'looked hell' at me—to adopt his own choice language, but said nothing about it.

On another occasion he told me—the request sounded like a command—to praise him for his magnanimity.

More Assassination.

As a few weeks before, he had tried to make me the agent for assassinating Robt. S Kelly—as he was then pursuing Mr Shephard—with whom he quarrelled when he could not make him a tool—with a malignity which it would be euphony to characterize as infernal, I peremptorily refused to do so.

The Danites of Kansas.

Lane organized a Club of Danites in Doniphan County. I became a member of it. Although attend it, he attempted, on the second night of his meeting, to make me the agent to induce the club to kill Bob Kelly. He saw that my unlucky indebtedness to him, did not give him a sufficient hold over me—that some day, if he again dared to attempt to rule my editorial course I would throw my property in his face and defy him. He wished, therefore, to engage me in a criminal enterprise—then I would be his slave for ever. I never hated Lane till he asked me to do this deed. I did indeed despise him from the bottom of my soul, but I did not believe him to be capable of a scheme so diabolical—to involve a young man, without any cause, in a criminal act of private revenge. It was so cowardly, contemptible and hellish, that I left him without saying a word. I need hardly add that I did not put my neck in his halter, that I did not choose to become his assassin, the Bob Kelly was not killed, or that Lane, after creating the disturbance in Doniphan, on his next visit to the town, entertained us with "magnanimous" and conservative speeches.

Lane's Sacrilege.

It was to be expected that the secret rioter should appear in public as a conservator of the peace; it was in keeping with the character of the man who once, in Indiana, as an eminent citizen of that State, a friend of his, who knew the fact, declared—went from the bed of a common brothel where he had passed the night, to a Christian Church in the morning, and partook of the holy sacrament of the Lord's Supper.

Lane a Curse to Kansas.

I determined now, after I had thus seen how he had intended to ruin me, to watch him with ceaseless, untiring vigilance, until I could obtain legal proof against him—not to use it in a court of justice, but privately to compel him to abandon his hopes of high office in the party he disgraces and degrades, and to leave the Territory to which his presence, excepting on two occasions only has been a great and almost unmitigated curse.

But I found there is danger, while watching an anaconda, of being cruched in its loathsome folds.

I am not the only young man whom he has tried to use for his cowardly schemes of secret and criminal revenge; and he may find, too, that he has reckoned without his host in more cases than in mine.

A Delicate Subject.

That "one hundred dollar loan," which was never borrowed—? Lane, I will spare you that history for the lady's sake. I do not wish to drive from you any purifying influence; for God knows that you need it, and he may have sent her, whom you wronged so foully, as and angel of mercy to save you from becoming yet more devilish than you now are, and to rekindle the lamp of conscience in your dark and murky soul.

But beware, Lane, beware! for I have not told all that I know yet. J. R.

Woman's Will.

The following beautiful story has been published in different forms, but none so good as the original:

Sir Hugo had reached his fiftieth year, unmolested by passion, save an ardent one for a flowing goblet. Instead of love-passion, his delight was in tournaments, whence he always returned victorious. At length he was flung from the saddle of his indifference by the beardless title love! He was Angelica, the fairest maided of the land, forgot his grey hairs, and unmindful of the incongruity of an union between May and December, led her to the nuptial altar. Fortunately, Angelica was as modest as she was fair, and her firm virtue repulsed the numerous butterflies that swarmed around the opening flowers of her beauty. Sir Hugo knew the tried virtue of his consort, and therefore she was to him dear and precious as the apple of his eye.

One morning he rode to pay a visit to a neighboring Baron in arms, his honest Squire Conrade trotting after him. Scarcely had they proceeded half way, when the knight suddenly stopped and cried—

"Come here, Comrade; a most tormenting thought has just occurred to me. This is the very day that Father Nicholas comes to the castle to say mass for my dear wife and myself, and I am not at all inclined to have him in my abode during my absence; so gallop back and desire your lady, in my name not to admit the priest."

Conrade paused and shook his head as if in doubt, and replied, "Excuse me, noble Sir, but perhaps the lady Angelica, if left to her own discretion, will do what you wish."

"A curse on your perhaps!" exclaimed the knight; "I make all sure by giving the order."

"Do you think so?" replied the squire; "now I in my simplicity, believe exactly the contrary. Take the advice of you faithful servant for once in your life; let things take their course, and give no order upon so delicate a point".

"A fig for your delicacy!" cried Sir Hugo, angrily; "what absurd fancies you have got into your have to-day! Do you think an hour ride a task so very tedious"

"Oh! if it comes to that, sir," rejoicing Conrade, "I have no more to say."

He put spurs to his horse, and rode back to the castle.

Angelica saw him galloping up, and cried in terror, from the window, "what has brought you back in such haste? Has any accident happened to my lord?"

"None whatever, my gracious lady," answered Conrade, "but the noble knight was apprehensive that some accident might happen you, if by any chance you took a fancy to ride Sultan."

"I ride—ride the large greyhound!" exclaimed Angelica, in utter astonishment. "I believe you are drunk or mad. It is impossible that your master could have so ridiculous a message."

"Are but he did, though," paused the squire; "and my noble master said, at the same time, that he knew Sultan would bite terribly, not being accustomed to be made a pony of; and he therefore begs that you will not attempt to divert yourself in that way." Having said this he again mounted his horse and galloped off to rejoin his master.

"Am I awake, or do I dream?" ejaculated Angelica. "The folly of Sir Hugo is so strange that I almost attempted to believe it all a wild dream. What does he mean? It is not enough that I have hitherto tried to read his every will and wish, and, when known, obeyed them implicity; and do I deserve that he should stretch his power so far, and play the capricious, haugh ty tyrant? Now I see that, to be too submissive too softly compliant, is not the way to treat him; the worm that crawls the dust is trampled upon. But no, Sir Knight, it is not gone quite so far with us yet, in spite of you I will ride Sultan, and you may think yourself as but for your message such a thing would never have entered my head."

Her soliloquy was here interrupted by the entrance of a servent, who informed her that Father Nicholas had arrived, and was in the antechamber. "I cannot receive his visit to day," said the consort to Sir Hugo, for my lord is absent. Give this as my excuse to the reverend father, and beg him return to-morrow. With all due respects to father Nicholas," continued she, when left to herself, he shall not spoil my present ride. Now if my pony were but here. He must have on easy gait, and his teeth I do not fear; he is as quiet as a lamb. Oh! how shall I delight in this two-fold pleasure of showing the surly old fellow that I care neither for him nor his orders and of trying a pastime that is at least a novel one!" Through every corner of the house re-ounded now her cry of Sultan.

"Here, boy! Sultan! Sultan!"

The immence and docile animal sprang from a bone upon which he was feasting, and was at her side in an instant. Caressing him till she has got him into a room, the door of which was shut:

"Now, friend Sultan," cried his fair mistress, "no growl, no bite, and all is safe." With her snow white hand she continued stroking and patting his huge back for some minutes, and then, in the hope that if only through gratitude he would comply with her fancy, she mounted her new steed. He showed his teeth a little, in some doubt what all that meant, but she soothed him again into a good humor and patient endurance of the novel burden; but he thought this quite enough, and did not stir from the one spot. Angelica was naturally not much pleased with being thus stationary; she therefore gently goaded him with her leg, but no trot would Sultan condescend; he remained motionless as before, while something very like a growl escaped from his immense and tear inspiring jaws. Out of all patience, she now exclaimed:

"You shall feel the spur then, you lazy brute," and drove her heel into his side. He now growled audibly, but stirred not an inch; she repeated her blow. This was too much for canine patience; he made a spring, and as she fell full length upon the floor, he turned and bit her hand. The dismounted rider endewed the floor with a few tears, and then sprang up to turn out of the room the uncourteous brute who had thus rudely shown how little he understood play.

Toward evening Sir Hugo returned and inquired with suspicious haste whether Futher Nicholas had been there.

"Oh, yes, he was here," answered Angelica, "but I ventured to refuse his admittance."

The knight cast a triumphant glance at his squire, and whispered him, "Now, old Wisdom, do you see the use of my orders?"

Conrade, who, as may be supposed, had said nothing of the alteration he made in the substance of his embassy, shrugged his shoulders with a smile unperceived by his masters, who had turned again to his consort, and first perceived that she wore a bandage upon her left hand. He immediately inquired the cause.

"Sultan bit me," said Angelica, "and it is all your fault, Sir Hugo," added she, sobbing.

"My fault!" cried the knight.

"Yes, your fault, and nobody's but yours," retorted his spouse "If you had not sent me word by Conrade not to ride the nasty, mischievous brute, such a mad trick would never have entered my head."

In mute astonishment the knight hurried to seek an explanation from his squire, who had slipped away when Angelica began her complaint.

"What message did you bring your lady?" demanded he.

Conrade now confessed the truth.

"Were these the orders I gave you, you scoundrel?" said the enraged Sir Hugo.

"Certainly not," replied the 'squire, "but you will own that I have made my point good. You may now see how it would have been had I given your order about the young priest. My noble lady is a model for her sex, and almost an angel, but still she is a daughter of Eve, who meant to have bequeathed to all her lineal female descendants her own spirit of perverseness. And we have only to remember the Lady Angelica's pleasant ride upon Sultan, to be convinced that it had lost none of its vigor in the descent."

Charles Sumner.

CHARLES SUMNER, the notorious, if not distinguished, Senator from Massachusetts, has set sail for France, just as the most important business of Congress was about to be consummated. His absence, however, will not be missed in that body, for he never devoted himself to its practical business, and was one of its least useful members. Before the unfortunate rencounter with Mr. BROOKS all that that he had done was to deliver annually a philippic against slavery, which comprised the sum total of this Senatorial duties. Since the rencounter he has been in his seat but little, upon the pretense of ill-health, but really because he has sunk into the most complete insignificance even with his own political friends. The champion of freedom, and the "martyr SUMNER," as he was called after his disgraceful tirade of personalities against the venerable BUTLER, of South Carolina, and the State which he represented, had led to an unfortunate and unjustifiable attack upon him by Mr. BROOKS, has of late received but little attention, and has lost what popularity that affair, for the time, gave him, and is as politically dead as his lamented antagonist, Mr. BROOKS. The best thing that he can do is to stay in Europe and never come back, for he is a complete specimen of an American snob, who will be more at home in the capitals of European aristocracy, whom he loves court, than he is in that of the American Democracy. His address to the people of Massachusetts, upon leaving New York, is a silly and affected performance, quite worthy of the exquisite who wrote it.—Cin. Enq.

More Republican Bribery—Startling Disclosures of Official Corruption.—A Legislative committee of Wisconsin, has been for some time investigating charges of corruption and fraud in the passage of the act by which nearly all the lands which the State receives from the general government were transferred in 1856, to certain railroad companies. The committee have just made their report, and it discloses the grossest and vilest system of official corruption which by its exposure has yet shocked the moral sense of the country. The Executive and Legislature of the State were shamelessly bought up, and induced to transfer to a railroad company millions worth of land, without any consideration therefor. The principal bargain was made with the Milwaukie and La Crosse Railroad. The report details the amount of stock and bonds given to the members of the Legislature who voted for the bill, and to the State officers, judges, and other parties, who lent their influence to secure its passage. Below will be found the sum total of the amount distributed, and the parties who were the recipients, presenting evidence that holding office in Wisconsin is not an empty honor:

Governor of State	$50,000
Governor's Private Secretary	55,000
State Officers	20,000
Supreme Court	1,900
18 State Senators	200,000
66 Assemblymen	385,000
Legislative Clerks	17,000
Editors and others	261,000
Grand total	$989,000

They were only four members of the Assembly who voted for the bill without receiving any consideration b Gov. Bashford got $50,000 in bonds. One Senator refused to accept the amount apportioned to him—$10,000. A beautiful specimen of official depravity!

Gov. Bashford who received the snug sum of $15,000 has his share of the spoils, is a very saint of a Republican, and is regarded as the great gun of his party in Wisconsin. Most of the others implicated in this startling scheme of corruption are also members of the same immaculate party.

A Mooted Question Settled—The editor o the Rushville (Illinois) Times, under the head of "Romance in Schuyler County," answers affirmatively the long-mooted question, whether a woman can keep a secret. He proves it by relating the particulars of a romance—the facts of which occurred in that vicinity. An elderly couple had a young and beautiful daughter, an only child, upon whom they lavished all their affections. Two years ago a young man applied to them for work, and they employed him. His goodness of heart, his amiable qualities and industry soon won their confidence. He had been in their employ six months, when the farmer, having business at Beardstown, sent the young man to attend to it, and as the daughter had some purchases to make, she was allowed to go with him. At night they returned. Affairs went on for eighteen months, the only change being the pleasure with which old people discovered that the young folks were daily becoming attached to each other, and they looked forward to their marriage as a result most gratifying. Being considered as "lovers," the young people were allowed to "sit up" together after the old folks retired; but one night, two weeks ago, the old gentleman, feeling unwell, rose up and not finding his daughter in her own bed, where she ought to have been, locked elsewhere, and found her where he thought she should not have been. Much noise and confusion ensued. Next day the farmer posted at full speed to Beardstown, had an interview with the keeper of the county records, and discovered that the aforesaid young man and woman had been legally joined in marriage for eighteen months, and she had never told any person of the fact.

Extraordinary Escape from the Michigan State Prison.—The Detroit Free Press gives the particulars of the escape from the State Prison, a few nights since, of a negro named Due, formerly of Detroit. He was a desperate villain, and so dangerous that he was confined in a "life cell" and heavily shackled with irons. It would seem that the cell is so constructed as to screen the occupant from the observation of keepers. The irons he cut off by some means, and then dug through the stone walls of his cell, bending and breaking heavy iron plates, and moving stones of upward of a hundred weight. Having accomplished this herculean feet without detection, he constructed a lantern from a tin can which he had in his cell, and went into the workshops, where he selected an iron weapon, with which he no doubt intended to knock out the brains of any man who opposed him. He also found materials from which he constructed a sort of ladder, with which he scaled the walls. He then stole a horse worth $200, belonging to one of the attaches of the prison, and made off. He left his prison clothes in the yard, having, it is thought, made new clothes of the blankets which he had in his cell. He was tracked ten miles his flight having been discovered about three hours after it occurred, and was then lost.

Perils of the West.—A New York gentleman reputed unusually happy in his domestic relations as husband and father, recently met with an accident which came near involving serious consequences. Having occasion to pass through Indiana on his way to the west, and while the Legislature was in session, he was casually detained over night in the capital of the State. At breakfast next morning, he was astonished to see in the State Journal an announcement of his divorce from his faithful partner whom he left in N. Y. City.

Either by accident or design of some practical joker, a bill had been presented to the Leg

ONGRESS is hurrying up business, and pro ng to return home next Thursday, on which both Houses have agreed to adjourn. Sev propos tions have been introduced in relation he course of the British squadron in the Gulf. much belligerent talk indulged in, but no ite action has been had

'onfirmation of Gov. Wright —We take the owing from the State Sentinel, of Monday: telegraphic dispatch from a prominent citi- of Indiana, now in Washington, states au- oritatively that the President will send the ie of Gov. Wright to the Senate, as minister erlin, and that his appointment will be con ned."

Health of Gov Willard —We are gratified to able to announce that Gov Willard is now of danger, and gradually recovering his lth The State Sentinel of Wednesday :—"It gives us pleasure to state that Gov. 'illard is convalescing He is yet quite feeble, able to sit up, but there is every reasonable spect of his restoration to sound health Un- the most favorable circumstances, it will be me weeks before he will be able to attend to usiness."

Revolution in New Orleans—The City of ew Orleans has long been under the control now nothingism, and as a natural result has en the daily scene of murders, riots, and out- es of the most sanguinary die Rowdyism as rampant, and murder stalked the streets at ntide. The perpetrators in many instances ere members of the police force, and in others ere their friends and protegees. No redress uld be had, and it had become as much as a n's life was worth to attempt to bring the ans to justice. The orderly citizens of that ressed city have at length resolved to rid emselves of the curse imposed on them, and ave risen in their might, seized the arsenal, ointed a Vigilance Committee to supercede e imbecile and corrupt city government, and ress a determination to purge the city of the urderous ruffians who have so long committed utrages with impunity. It is to be hoped they l make a thorough job and mete out rig'd and nsparing justice on the wretches, not leaving e to renew the difficulties after the present ex- ement may have subsided. The character, utation, and prosperity of the city alike de- nand such a course, and the Vigilance Com- ttee may rely on the support and countenance good citizens in all parts of the country if ey strictly administer the most rigid justice, thout fear or favor, on all the ruffians who nay fall into their hands

Westward the Star of Empire, &c – Many our citizens for the past two or three years nave been taken off with the western or prairie ever, and gone to Iowa. We have frequently ttempted to prescribe for such cases, and re- commended the unhappy victims to stay at ome if they knew when they are well off.— umbers now have seen cause to regret that ey did not take our advice To those who are ll suffering, we commend the following expe- ence of an Iowa farmer, published in the estern Farmer :—

"We have warm, rainy weather now; mud early knee deep. Everybody is complaining of ard times Wheat is worth but forty cents a shel delivered at the railroad, and that in rags fifteen per cent discount. There has been d wheat sold at Tipton within a week at enty cents a bushel for gold. Many of my ighbors have sold their corn for ten and twelve ents per bushel and as good corn as there in the county. Corn is heating and spoiling almost all parts of Iowa. I have conversed with a number of owners of threshing machines and they say that the wheat of Cedar county will not quite average, for the last year, twenty bushels per acre.—Merchants and creditors are suing and selling property for a mere song — ome are giving up their lands after the first payments have been made and considerable improvements done. Some farmers are paying ve per cent. a month for money There will not be as much wheat sown this year as last ome are going to quit almost entirely the pres- nt year. They think it will not pay to raise wheat at the present prices, or at the prospect of uture rates"

Now, we would ask seriously what there is such a truthful picture of the state of affairs in Iowa to induce any rational man to sacrifice well improved farm here, by selling it below its cal value, leave behind him all the comforts and conveniences of civilization, the advantages of ood roads, schools, and a sure and good market such as we always have in Fort Wayne, and unge into a wilderness, where he must pay wice as much for land as he sold his own for, ave to carry his scanty produce for long dis- ances over almost impassable roads, and then sell it at such prices as are given above? It appears to us, as it must to every unprejudiced observer, that cheap land, large crops, and good prices here, are better than dear land; poor rops, and wretched prices either in Iowa or any other new country.

What land may be worth in Iowa at present, or whether it has any real value, we are not prepared to say; but previous to the late revul- sion, it is a well known fact that a farm in Iowa was rated at least double what an equally good one here, with the same or even greater advan- tages in location, contiguity to market, &c., could be purchased for. This matter is begin- ning to be understood now; we hear of compara- tively few cases of this distressing western epi- demic at this time; and we trust those few may by good advice and nursing, and being kept cool and free from excitement, be speedily brought to a state of convalescence.

To those in the east, seeking a new location, we would advise a visit to Allen County, where an abundance of first rate land, either wild lands or improved farms, can be had cheap—far cheaper than in any of the newer counties further west. We venture to assert that no place in the west offers greater inducements to enterprising settlers. Land is cheap, crops sure and good, and above all, we have one of the best markets ere that can be found, and the farmer is sure of remunerating prices, paid in Cash, for all his supplies. The many difficulties and privations inseparable from this first settlement of any new country are removed and overcome, and he individual who pitches his tent among us at once finds all the advantages and conveniences of an old and well settled country. To all seeking a new home we cordially extend an invitation. Come here, and your most sanguine expectations will be more than realized.

To mechanics and business men our prosperous and rising city also offers as great inducements as our country does for farmers. Property is still comparatively low; our city is rapidly growing, and with its numerous railroads and other facilities, and the vast scope of rich country to which it will always be the market, cannot fail to become a point of much commercial importance For manufacturing purposes it is admirably adapted; the great resources of the surrounding country, and the conveniences of exporting to all parts of the Union, point this out as a desirable location for a manufacturing town. Our manufactures are as yet in their infancy—or rather this branch of profitable industry has been almost entirely overlooked. A fine field is here opened for the enterprising, and any branch of manufactures established here would to a certainty prove remunerative. We might dwell on this subject and extend our remarks to an almost indefinite extent; but we forbear, and invite all wishing to improve their condition, to come here, look around them carefully and deliberately, and then judge for themselves.

Important to Dealers in Bogus—In the United States District Court, on Wednesday, —— Abey, one of the Lagrange counterfeiters was put on his trial for passing bogus quarters. It was proved that he had counterfeits in his possession, and he admitted purchasing and disposing of the same: but as it was not proved that he had passed them with fraudulent intent, the jury, under direction of the Court, acquitted him! He was then arraigned on a charge of passing bogus half dollars, the result of which we have not learned

This is truly a strange construction of law calculated to foster and encourage the business of counterfeiting, by protecting the dealer in bogus from arrest He may dispose of it by wholesale, as counterfeit, without fraudulent intent, because the buyers know what it is, and he does not represent it to be otherwise. If they attempt to pass it as genuine, they may be punished; but the prime mover in the iniquity—he who supplies it wholesale to the scamps who circulate it—escapes scot free! Laws may well be likened to cobwebs, which catch small flies, but allow large ones to break through.

If this is to be an established rule of law the regulators must hereafter take a change of venue in all cases where they get hold of the principals—the wholesale dealers—and try them before JUDGE LYNCH. His court is more impartial, and does not draw such nice distinctions in favor of the greater criminals, but places them on a wholesome democratic equality with the smaller fry of rascals.

Naval Force in the Gulf.—The United States have now in the gulf, or under orders to proceed there, eight vessels of war, carrying 140 guns. The British have thirteen ships and steamers, and four gun boats, carrying in the aggregate 357 guns.

Dreadful Tornado in Illinois—Village Destroyed and Nineteen Persons Killed!—The village of Ellison, in Warren Co. Illinois, situate about five miles south of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, was almost entirely destroyed by a most appalling tornado which swept over it on Sunday afternoon last, prostrating or rather tearing to atoms almost every building in the place, and instantly killing fourteen persons; five others have since died, and nearly 50 more are seriously, some of them fatally, injured. The bodies of some of the unfortunate victims are described as being literally torn to pieces, and their fragments scattered in all directions. It was the most awful visitation of the kind ever witnessed in this country, more resembling in its horrors and fury the terrible elemental commotions of the tropics, than any thing ever before known in the calmer regions of the temperate zone.

ARREST.—J Cothrell, of this city, was arrested by the Deputy U S. Marshal on Tuesday night, and was taken to Indianapolis for trial We have not heard the grounds of the arrest, but presume it to be a charge of counterfeiting

Curious Calculation —Speaking of the amount of specie in the world, Peterson's Philadelphia Counterfeit Detector says:—"It has been computed that if we estimate the solid yard of gold at ten millions of dollars, which it is in round numbers, all the gold in the world might, if welded into ingots, be contained in a cellar twenty-four feet square, and sixteen feet high All the boasted wealth already obtained from California and Australia, would go into an iron safe nine feet square, and nine feet high—so small is the cube of yellow metal that has set populations on the march, and roused the whole world to wonder."

DENTISTRY.—We refer all suffering from diseases of the teeth—and their name is legion—to the advertisement of Dr. Mawson, surgeon dentist, who designs settling among us. He brings the highest testimonials of his professional skill, and having had 20 years experience in his profession, in various parts of the world, he can warrant to give entire satisfaction to all who call upon him.

Professor Palmer's Lectures on Phrenology, Physiology, &c., draw large audiences, and appear to give general satisfaction. He is a fluent and pleasing speaker, thoroughly posted in the matter he elucidates, and contrives to keep his audience in the best possible humor and attract their undivided attention to the subject of his lecture. He has quite an extensive cabinet of portraits of distinguished men and natives of all climes, scalls, busts, &c., with which he illustrates his lectures. He also attends in the hall through the day and gives phrenological charts to those who submit their bumps for his examination.

Mrs. Palmer will commence a course of Lectures on Physiology, for females only, this afternoon

By his advertisement in another column, it will be seen that the subject of these lectures will be changed on Wednesday next.

Peterson's Philadelphia Counterfeit Detector of 1st June contains a list of 35 new counterfeits detected since the previous issue of 15th May! Counterfeiting would seem to be on the increase, notwithstanding the efforts of the regulators for its suppression, and all business men need a good and reliable Detector for their protection from fraud. Such an one we believe Peterson's to be. The Philadelphia Public Ledger says of it:—'The June number, just issued, contains a perfect list of all the counterfeits, broken banks and rates of discount on bank notes. The objection brought against many of the counterfeit detectors published elsewhere, that they are merely vehicles for levying black mail, cannot be urged against this, for the character of the publishers, T. B. Peterson & Bros, and of the editors, Drexel & Co, are above suspicion." We would advise all persons to subscribe to this Detector at once. The price is only one dollar a year, monthly, or two dollars a year for it, semi-monthly

The Weather continues unsettled and wet; the streams are high, and the bottom lands overflowed; but little corn has yet been planted, and it is now getting too late to plant with any reasonable hope of the corn's ripening, unless some of the small, northern varieties could be procured. The farmer's prospects are rather gloomy.

Messrs WILLIAMS & HEUSTIS have commenced the manufacture of candies in this city on an extensive scale, and are prepared to furnish either stick or fancy candy to any extent on the shortest notice. Their candies are far better than the Buffalo or Cincinnati article usually sold here, and they will be sold at the same prices. Dealers will make money and at the same time gratify the taste of their customers by procuring their supplies from this establishment.

Honor to whom honor is due.—We copy from the Piqua Enquirer the following just and complimentary notice of our energetic sheriff, W. Fleming, and his associate, Mr Cummins, Sheriff of Lagrange. More than 20 stolen horses have been restored to their owners within the last 4 months by these vigilant officers.

Stolen Horses Recovered:—Through the perseverence and indefatigable exertions of the Sheriffs of Allen and Lagrange counties, Indiana, Messrs Fleming and Cummins, the horses stolen from J & W Hamilton, and Joseph Hilliard, of this vicinity, some nineteen months ago, were recently recovered and returned to their owners. Too much praise cannot be awarded these officers for their efforts in breaking up the gangs of outlaws, who infest the Hoosier State and bringing them to the merited punishment they deserve The people of that section owe them a debt of gratitude, which we are sure they will discharge at some future day, and the gentlemen here speak of them in the highest terms, as liberal and high minded gentlemen.

Official Bribery in Iowa.—On our first page we publish an account of the Wisconsin bribery case, and now comes another report of the like proceedings in Iowa. The Dubuque Herald says:

More Republican Corruption.—We have just received the report of the special committee, appointed by the House of Representatives at the late session of our Legislature to investigate the alleged frauds in the location of the Capital at Des Moines We had heard of the charges of dishonesty and bribery against the Republican Commissioners, or a majority of them, who were appointed by a Republican Legislature to relocate the Capital; but this report now before us makes known and confirms a greater amount of rascality on the part of those commissioners than we had even heard

Evidence is given to show that they received as a personal and private bribe, more than fifty thousand dollars worth of property

Certain witnesses, namely, Messrs Baldwin Scott, Williamson, and Mitchell, refused to answer and to testify to certain most important parts in the investigation, and though the Committee reported them contumacious witnesses to the House; yet the Republican House neglected or refused to compel them to testify. By this act, which it behooves the people of Iowa to notice, the Republican House attempted to throw a cloak over the dishonesty and villainy of the Commissioners.

The Shylock of Mount Vernon.—The Southern press is pretty generally denouncing John A. Washington as the "Shylock of Virginia," for having made the most he could out of his country's reverence for his ancestor's bones, in selling the Mount Vernon estate for $200,000. When but for being the burial place of Washington, it would not be worth $10,000—thereby making $90,000 but of the bones of the father of his country. Few Yankees could drive a sharper bargain than this old Virginia gentleman has done.

The New Orleans Picayune, says: There should be some recognition of this sordid speculation. Nothing occurs to us more fitting, if it were only possible, than that the ladies should make it a further condition, that after the purchase is completed, the seller shall formally renounce the name of Washington, and adopt some other for himself. It would only require a bonus of a few thousand more to obtain his consent, and there is not a Legislature extant that would not pass a law, unanimously and gladly, to legalize the charge.

WASHINGTON, May 28.

A movement is in progress contemplating the co operation of all the opposition elements of the Administration in the People's Party of the Union. The main features proposed by the organization are, ignoring all questions productive of sectional strife, the protection of popular rights, a judicious system of internal improvements, a settled and firm foreign policy, prevention of the landing of foreign and criminal paupers, the protection of the ballot box, and an intended period of residence after naturalization as a condition to the exercise of the elective franchise, fostering American genius and art. Every Territory rising into a State, to have a constitution and laws framed by citizens of the United States, who are permanent inhabitants under such rules as Congress may prescribe.

WASHINGTON, May 26.

The House of Representatives threw off its apathy yesterday, and dismissed the private calender by wholesale Ninety bills were passed. Notwithstanding the start, the day's business were exceedingly bad, from the objections interposed on both sides Three appropriations were also carried, by one of which, that for the ocean Mail Service, the Postmaster General, is virtually authorized to make contracts at discretion which are now regulated by law. The Senate devoted the day to the Miscellaneous Bill, which is partially a substitute for the old Omnibus, upon which everything is piled that cannot be borne by any other.

Mr. Mason, from the Committee on Foreign Relations, submitted a report in regard to the British outrages. The document is clear and pointed, without being offensive in tone, and stops short of the voluntary movement which was made by Mr. Douglas, much to the surprise of some of his friends, for investing the President with a power that has never yet been conferred on any predecessor.

WASHINGTON, May 30.

An animated debate occurred in the Senate, yesterday, upon the report and resolutions from the Committee on Foreign Relations. There seemed to be much rivalry between the representative men of the various interests, to take the lead in belligerent demonstrations, and it is difficult to determine, whether Toombs, Douglas, Mallory, Hale, or Wilson, was most emphatic in these utterances. Douglas signalized himself especially, by urging that increased power should be placed in the hands of the President—a power which Mr. Garnett, of Va., denounced in the House, as inaugurating a "military despotism"

Mr. Hale moved to amend the resolutions by a clause, declaring the offensive acts to be belligerent in their character, and ought to be resisted by all the power of the Government; and Mr. Wilson of Mass., not to be outdone, went a step further, and proposed that the President should be authorized and empowered to employ the naval force of the United States, and send the same to the scenes of the recent outrages with instructions to capture the ships which have committed, or may commit these belligerent acts.

Mr. Mason endeavored to press a vote on the resolutions, but notwithstanding all the explosions, a majority decided to give them the go by and take up the Appropriation Bills. And what is most remarkable in this connection, is the fact, that the rank and file of the Democracy voted for the latter. They do not like a war spirit, which is generalled by such heroic hearts Seward, Hale, and Wilson

The rest of the day was consumed by the Senate upon the discussion upon the Civil Appropriation bill, in which the grants for continuing Custom Houses that had been rejected by the House, and other large items, were most considered. They adjourned, leaving the bill pending. The House gave another day to neglected private claimants, and thus partially redeemed one of their short-comings at this session.

The Ocean Steamer Bill, appropriating nearly two millions of dollars, went through the House with entire ignorance of a provision which invests the Postmaster General with discretionary contracts, always heretofore regulated by law. At present the Liverpool, Southampton and Bremen lines, are carrying the mails for the ocean postage, and they might at least continue to do so until Congress could afford the necessary time to revise the system and establish it on some substantial foundation.

Correspondence of the N Y. Evening Post.

British Aggressions—I learn that Lord Napier has had under serious consideration, the subject of going to Halifax to avoid the unpleasant discussion now going on in Congress in relation to British outrages. This gentleman thinks that his government will make a satisfactory explanation to the United States, and will disapprove the conduct of British officers in searching American vessels in the Gulf. Lord Napier, report says, was much grieved at the debate in the Senate on Saturday, expressing the opinion that it was very unfriendly and warlike character. Rumor says that opinions have been expressed by members of the British embassy, that the menacing attitude of the United States will have the tendency to strengthen the alliance between France and England, and that in the event of an attack of one of our ships of war upon a British vessel, England will promptly declare war against the United States, and will be promptly be sustained by France. It is proper to say, in this connection, that Lord Napier, has stated, unofficially, that in the event of a naval conflict in the Gulf between the two powers, and the capture of a British vessel by the United States ship of war, he would not consider it a sufficient cause for a declaration of war, but that it would be a matter that could be easily settled by negotiation.

NEW YORK, May 29.

It is rumored that Lord Napier has dispatched a vessel hence ordering the British Admiral of the Gulf squadron to abstain from further interference until further advices were received from England. The rumor is considered unreliable.

NEW YORK, June 4.

From Havana.—The steamer Cahawba, from Havana, May 30th, arrived this morning.

The English officer who boarded the American vessels at Sagua La Grange has been arrested and sent to Jamaica—one account says for exceeding his instructions—another for allowing himself and marines to be driven from the deck of the ship Grotto

The barque Reliance was boarded off Cuba by a boat from a British steamer.

The brigh Geo H. Chase was hailed but refused to stop and was not molested.

Advices from Havana at Vera Cruz state that the prisoners taken at Tampica by Gen. Mejia had all been shot

HALIFAX, June 4.

Lord Napier's Dispatches—A steamer left this morning for Bermuda with Lord Napier's instructions to the British Admiral in relation to the visitation process.

NEW ORLEANS, June 2d.

Walker's Trial Concluded —Walker's trial is concluded. The jury disagree—10 for acquittal and 2 for conviction. Judge Campbell's charge was extremely partial and stringent A new trial was urged immediately by Walker.

Revolution in New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, June 3d.

A revolution broke out here last night. A vigilance committee in large numbers took possession of the arsenal in Jackson square and the prisoners this morning The Executive Committee calls for all law and order people to join them, and announces their determination to carry their measures out.

At 7 o'clock A M, nothing further had transpired. Loaded cannon are posted about the arsenal and 200 armed men are on guard.

The following address appeared this morning:

"To the Citizens of New Orleans:—After years of disorder, outrage and unchecked assassination the people unable and unwilling to bow down in unresistec submission to a set of ruffians, or to abandon the city in which their business, their social sympathies, and their affections cluster, have at length risen in their might; have quietly taken possession of the arsenals and buildings in Jackson square, and have established there the head quarters of Vigilance Committee; pledging each to the other to maintain the rights inviolate of every peaceable and law abiding citizens; to restore public order, and abate crime, and expel or punish as they may determine, such notorious robbers and assassins as the arm of the law has, either from the infidelity of its public servants, or the expediency of the law, themselves unwhipped of justice"

For the present the ordinary machinery of police justice is superced, the Mayor and Recorder yielding up their power. They confess their inability to exercise it for the preservation of the public peace and the protection of property; and the Vigilance Committee will act provisionally in their stead, administering to each and every malefactor the punishment due to their crime without heat, prejudice, or political bias All citizens who sympathize in this movement and who think the time has come when New Orleans shall be preserved like all other well ordered and civilized communities, will report themselves without delay at the principal office, where the character of this movement will be explained and the determination of the people more fully known. All has been done noiselessly so far All will continue noiselessly, dispassionately, and justly, but the ruffians who have dyed our streets with the gore of unoffending citizens, and spread terror among the peaceful, orderly and well disposed, must leave or perish So the PEOPLE have determined Vox Populi Vox Dei!

Seven to eight hundred persons are under arms now at 10 o'clock Seven arrests have been made. It is reported that there be opposition made, in which case a severe battle is certain. Volunteers are still crowding up

The District Attorney has entered a nolle prosequi in Walker's case.

Gen. Tracy's division of the militia has been ordered out by the Mayor.

NEW ORLEANS June 3. P. M.

The Mayor and Council have gone to the headquarters of the Vigilance Committee and read the Riot act. Two companies of militia are engaged in making cartridges. The Vigilance Committee have established signals. Three guns fired from the Arsenal invite their supporters to repair to the arsenal to resist an attack.

Later—8 P. M.—The vigilance committee still triumphant. No fight as yet. Cotton bales have been tore up and used for barricading the streets. The city force is an unarmed rabble, with no organization or leader. The Mayor has issued orders to take arms wherever they can be found Acting upon this order, the rabble broke open and seized weapons in Kiltridge's store It is expected that the Vigilance committee will seize the City Hall to morrow. Bands of armed ruffians are parading the streets. The stores were compelled to close this afternoon. The vigilance committee is supported by most respectable citizens, and the municipal authorities must succumb. A terrible fight is expected to night. The gathering around the head quarters of the vigilance committee is immense.

June 4.—The Mayor's force is still unorganized. All quiet. Great preparations are being made by both parties The Vigilance Committee is commanded by Major J K Duncan late U. S. Army, and is well organized and drilled.

From the Army.

ST LOUIS, June 3.

A despatch from Leavenworth, (1st) says that intelligence from Camp Scott to the 6th of May had been received at the Fort. On that day two Mormons came from the City into the Camp, having despatches from Gov Cummings to Secretary Cass The troops expected to move towards the valley towards the end of May. Nothing was known at the Camp at this date, of any proceedings within the City. The foregoing came by mail to the Fort. The Express man who brought it supplied the following particulars:

He left Laramie on the 18th inst. At Kearney, the commanding officer directed him to inform Col Monroe that he had information that Gov Cumming had been expelled from Salt Lake City, and that the Mormons were in arms and determined to resist the army to the last, and requesting Col Monroe to push on as speedily as possible.

This information was received at Kearney through a mail brought by the messenger to whom it was communicated verbally for lack of time

Col Hofman's command was met 90 miles beyond Laramie He had encountered snow three feet deep and lost many animals. All the rivers were very high. The Peace Commissioner had passed Laramie, and were obliged to swim the Platte at that post.

It was reported that the troops at Camp Scott living on mule meat. No official news received at the fort.

Arrival of the Indian.

QUEBEC, June 1.

The steamship Indian has arrived from Liverpool, with dates to the 19th ult. An unreliable dispatch says that breadstuffs were dull, but that all qualities had improved—Wheat to the extent of 2a5d., and Flour 1a2s. Telegraphic dispatches from Bombay, received at Malta, state that Azinghus was relieved on the 15th of April, by General Lugard, with but trifling loss. Brigadier Seaton defeated the rebels near Futtyghur, killing and wounding three hundred, and capturing guns and ammunition. A body of rebels in the Maltpoosa Mountains, and a large body of Bheels had also been defeated. Five hundred were captured. The British loss was severe, including five officers. General Rose delayed the advance upon Calpee, in consequence of a threatened demonstration of the rebels upon Ihansi. A Vienna dispatch says the Montenegrens attacked the Turks, near Grahoova, and nearly annihilated their whole force, killing Commander Kiamil Pasha, and capturing all the guns The loss of the Montenegrens was two hundred killed and wounded. The Turks numbered seven thousand, and the Montenegrens five thousand The London Times says rumors prevail in political circles concerning the intentions of France toward Belgium. The conflict between Turkey and Montengro is growing in political importance. Hostilities, however, have been suspended.

Arrival of the America.

HALIFAX, June 2.

The R. M. steamship America Capt, Moody, from Liverpool Saturday, May 22d, arrived at 5 o'clock this morning.

The screw steamship Kangaroo, from N Y., on the 8th of May, arrived at Liverpool on the 22d ult. She carried the mail

The political news by this arrival is of much interest.

In the House of Commons Mr. Cardwell had withdrawn his motion censuring the government for the publication of the despatch to the Governor General of India. The Derby minister had thus achieved a virtual triumph.

Another important item of intelligence is that the King of Naples had in effect rejected the demands of England for indemnity to the imprisoned engineers of the Cagliari. Naples was actively proceeding with her military defences.

There is nothing later from India.

A detachment of the telegraphic corps of the Atlantic Telegraphic Company, came in the America, en route to New Foundland to make preparations to land the cable at Trinity Bay.

Great Britain—The reason of the with drawal of the motion to censure the government, was caused by the reception of a despatch from Sir James Outram, concerning the severity of the proclamation, and Lord Canonings reasons for issuing it. The liberals called upon Mr Cadwell, to withdraw his motion Outram it appears earnestly protested against Lord Canning's policy, but without effect The Telegraphic fleet had assembled at Plymouth, and would sail on the experimental trip in a few days. It consists of the Niagara, Agamemnon, Valarius, Gorgon and Percupine. The London Times argues that the Clayton Bulwer treaty is permanent, and there is no power on either side to abrogate

The Turkish Government is said to have consented to a settlement with Montenegro in consequence of a despatch from its Ambassador in Paris stating that it the Porte did not arrange it France would formally recognize the independence of Montenegro

It is stated that the King of Naples has applied to the Czar for a passport. He said he was fearful of France and could no longer be sure that England would continue her policy of conciliation.

Letters from Italy say that various Governments are making preparations against an apprehended demonstration by Mazzini Rising conspiracies are said to have been discovered in several towns in Spain.

The Turks are said to have had 2,000 killed in the battle with the Montenegrians

Liverpool Markets——Breadstuffs——Messrs. Richardson, Spence & Co state that the weather continued favorable for the crops and the supply was liberal. Flour was dull; Western Canal 21s a 21s 6d; Philadelphia and Baltimore 22s; Ohio 23s 6d a 25s. Wheat dull and sales unimportant; red 6s; western 6s 3d a 6s 9d; southern white 7s a 7s 2d. Corn dull; 6d lower since last Tuesday; Yellow 34s; White 34s a 34s 6d

Isthmus News.—The frigate Saranac arrived at Panama on the 7th of May, with dates from Valparaiso to the 16th, and Callao to the 27th of April Nothing important. Advices from Guatimala state the cholera is raging with great violence in various parts of the Republic Advices from Nicaragua state that M Belly, French Agent, is negotiating for a transit route, for which, he says sixty millions of francs are already subscribed in France. A British steamer from Greytown reports, that on the 25th of April, Col Kinney made an attempt to capture Greytown he having hauled down Musquito and hoisted the Nicaraguan flag and taken the Mayor prisoner The citizens flew to arms and also appealed to Captain Kennedy, of the Jamestown, for assistance It was granted, and five cutters filled with marines left the Jamestown for shore Kinney and his party finally surrendered to Captain Kennedy, and were sent to Aspinwall in the British steamer The party consisted of himself George R Gliddo, R S Tool, Thomas T Bell and A P Dresser.

NEW YORK, May 29

Another Visitation of an American Vessel—The bring J A Taylor, from Sagua, was boarded there, on the eighth, by a boat from the British ship Styx The officer was asked where from and whence bound His papers also were examined.

☞ A dangerous counterfeit upon the tens issued by the State Bank of Ohio, is now circulating. In the counterfeit, the letter W, in the line "will pay," &c, touches the inside of the left end-piece. In the genuine, there is a small space between the letter and the end-piece Caution should be exercised in receiving the tens upon that bank.

Alarmed.—Some of the papers are seriously alarmed at the proposition contained in the bill of Senator Douglas, giving to the President additional powers for the adjustment of our difficulties with other powers, and enabling him to enforce any demands it may be found necessary to make upon them. They see, or imagine they see in it, a disposition to clothe the President with dictatorial powers; and the Post especially is trouble to understand "what the President has done to entitle him to this extraordinary mark of confidence" Perhaps it would be more fitting, since this is a question affecting the honor of the country, for that sheet to show what the President has done, that Congress in such an emergency, should withhold its confidence. Since the opposition papers, a few weeks ago, pinned their faith upon Judge Douglas, perhaps they will now, as then, repose confidence in his judgment, and believe that there is good cause for the reliance which he places in the discretion of the executive.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

☞ The U S District Court of Indiana, in session at Indianapolis, is doing a brisk business in the way of convicting counterfeiters. In addition to some already mentioned, David McNett and Robert Marshall for five years, and Dr. James Patterson have been convicted, and the trial of Samuel Anderson had not been concluded. In every case a motion for a new trial was made.

During the progress of the case of Patterson, Charles Weaver, one of the witnesses for the defense, swore that the prosecution was a conspiracy, and that he saw one of the officers, in searching the house of Dr. Patterson, place the counterfeit coin where it was found. He was contradicted by some half a dozen witnesses, and immediately upon his leaving the witness stand a complaint was made against Weaver for perjury, before the grand jury, and a bill of indictment found, upon which he was arrested.

Salmon Jones, who is connected with the Exchange Bank at Indianapolis, was arrested there on Friday, on a charge of passing a counterfeit $10 note on the Sandusky City Bank. On his person was found over $200 in counterfeit and broken bank bills, and some bogus coin—Louisville Journal.

A Large Business—The House of Representatives yesterday passed eighty-five bills, seventeen of which were Senate bills. It is understood they run through the private calendar, and gave so complete a manifestation of devotion to the public interest as to leave little room to doubt the final adjournment on the day fixed. The House passed the army, the Mail Steamer and Post Office Appropriation Bills. A good day's work.—Washington Union, May 29.

Indiana State Credit.—Indiana 5 per cent. Bonds sold in New York, on the 26th of May for 88. This is equal to 105 for a 6 per cent. stock. On the same day Ohio 6's sold at 102¼; Missouri 6's, 84, being $4 less than Indiana 5 per cent's; Louisiana 6's, 92; Virginia 6's, 92⅝. The credit of no Western State stands higher than Indiana This speaks well for the management of the financial affairs of the State, and for the constitutional restriction against increasing the State indebtedness The Auditor issues circulation to the free banks of the State upon a basis of 83 for Indiana stocks, with a 10 per cent. margin from that. This makes the bank issues based upon our stocks a very safe circulation—State Sentinel.

Troubles on the Border.—We are informed that Governor Stewart telegraphed to this city yesterday, requesting Quarter-master General Hackney and Inspector General Blackey to repair to Jefferson city without delay. It is supposed that it is intended to make a call on the militia for the purpose of resisting the invasion of the counties bordering on Kansas by the marauders from that Territory under Montgomery who are reported to have crossed the line into Bates and Cass Counties, and committed numerous outrages upon the peaceable inhabitants of those counties.

Since the above was written we have received information that the Executive had sent General Parsons, of Jefferson City, up the river with a view of ascertaining the extent of the troubles, and to report whether it will be necessary to call out the military to protect the border counties from the depredations of Montgomery's band of robbers.

A gentleman just from the counties of Bates and Cass informs us that he saw more than a hundred wagons and families who had been driven from the Territory, their property destroyed, and in many instances the clothing of the women and children were taken from them. They were perfectly destitute, and the citizens of Independence and that vicinity, were making contributions for their relief This lawless band have driven many conservative Free State men away, whose property has also shared in the common ruin, and who have sought shelter and protection in Missouri It was currently reported above that Montgomery and his banditti would invade some of the sparsely populated counties on the border, and great excitement exists.—St. Louis Republican, May 31.

Proceedings Under Kansas Admission Act—It is gratifying to find the reports of bandit outrages in Kansas offset by accounts of proceedings, which promise much better for the peace and welfare of that Territory. The commission provided by the act of Congress, which admits Kansas into the Union, has held its first meeting. Its duty is to make preparations for holding the election under that act, as it consists of two decided free-State men or Republicans—the one the President of the Kansas Council, and the other the Speaker of the House—besides the regular Territorial Governor, Secretary and District Attorney, there was reason to apprehend fatal disagreements in the body. It appears, however, on the contrary, that much harmony characterized its entire action at the first meeting On motion of Mr Babcock, the President of the Council, it was unanimously agreed that the election of the Representative to Congress should take place on the first Monday of August next. A committee was appointed to report at an adjourned meeting a plan of proceeding for conducting the required elections. Everything done at the first sitting seems to have been done with the disposition, on both sides and among all the members, to make such discreet and judicious arrangements as would not be fairly open to exception from either or any side. We trust this spirit will govern at all the future meetings of the Board. Its prevalence for the last three years in Kansas would have saved that demagogue-ridden and harrassed Territory an incalculable deal of mischief and disgrace.—St Louis Republican.

☞ The individual who is attempting to make a fuss because Messrs Bright, English and Foley located some land warrants in Iowa, is one D. C. Bloomer, the husband of Mrs. Bloomer, of short petticoat notority. Poor Bloomer is of the genus hen-pecked. His wife must be off on a lecturing or electioneering tour, or a hunting expedition among the Indians and buffaloes, or she never would have permitted her spouse to appear in print. The poor fellow's attempt to wear his wife's pants during her absence will no doubt, be the cause of a fuss in the family. Don't treat him too harshly, Amelia.—N. Albany Ledger

Great Pension Frauds—The United States District Court of Vermont has lately been occupied in trying various parties for frauds perpetrated upon the Pension Department By a law passed a year or two since, lands are given to those who acted as volunteers at the invasion of Plattsburg and in case of the destruction of record evidence, parol testimony is admitted to prove the service. Under this law enormous frauds have been perpetrated. Their existence was first exposed by the fact that claims had been filed at Washington for over fifty companies of men, when the fact is known that only thirty five companies were employed at the said invasion.

One case, which resulted in the conviction of R. D Waters, showed forgeries seldom equaled Rolls of whole companies have been made up by his pen, and such perfect imitation of antiquated documents as to deceive the most accomplished expert, who could with difficulty designate them from genuine records of service. Waters is over seventy years of age.

Another offender is J. C Burwell, a man of property, having a fine family. He has heretofore sustained a good character, and resides at Barton, in Vermont. He had sent to Washington more than four hundred forged claims

A Plucky Senator.—The Hon William Chappell, a member of the Wisconsin Senate, received $10,000 of the Lacrosse and Milwaukee Railroad bribe two years ago, and was active in corrupting his legislative associates. The Senate, at its recent session, voted, twenty one to five, that he was guilty, and eighteen to nine that he was unworthy of a seat in the body. He, however, retained his seat A mass meeting at Watertown, where he resides, held without distinction of party, unanimously requested him to resign He refused. The Common Council of that city, a majority being his political friends, made a similar request by a vote of seven to five But Mr C. would not comply. As this plucky Senator will be remembered in history, it is proper to record that he emerged from the State of New York. He is well supplied with brass as well as "the tin."

Terrible Death—The Omro (Wisconsin) Republican says:

About four miles west of this village, on the afternoon of Saturday last, a man by the name of Mitchell was buried alive by the caving in of a well. The first time the earth gave way it buried him up to his knees; but such was the pressure of the dirt that he could not be got out, even with the help of a windlass. When striving to extricate himself the sand caved in again and buried him up to his waist. His brother in law sprang into the well and commenced throwing the dirt from him, but it continued running in until he was buried up to his neck. His brother in law seeing that the dirt came in faster than he could throw it out, left him to get assistance. When the help arrived they found him completely covered After digging some hours he was taken out dead. Mr Mitchell was a young man about twenty four or twenty five years of age and leaves a wife and child

To be Sued for Damages—The Lafayette Journal understands that the relatives of one or two of the unfortunate men who were killed in the recent disaster at Potato Creek, on the Lafayette and Indianapolis Railroad, are about to commence suit against the company for damages. It is alleged that the bridge was notoriously unsafe, and had been so for months previous to the accident. The family of Maloney, the fireman, is left in circumstances of extreme poverty and distress.

Romance in Real Life.—The Bucyrus Journal says that a man living near there lost his wife some years in Homer, N. Y.; that they had a little girl which he gave to a friend and left the country. He was gone ten years and returned, but could find no trace of his child. She had two marks by which he might know her—one toe was gone, and she had a scar on her arm The man gave her up as lost to him, and finally settled near Bucyrus and married. The rest we give from that paper:

About six weeks ago he happened to pass by the room in his house occupied by a servant girl who had resided with him for nearly two years, at a time when she was about to retire, and the door being open, he saw her foot. He merely glanced at it, and happened to notice that the little toe of the right foot was missing. He thought nothing of it at the time, but, after retiring, the idea struck him that it might be the daughter he had searched for so long At first he dismissed the thought as improbable, but it still forced itself upon him, until finally he requested his wife to go to the room and ascertain whether there was or not marks of a scald upon her right arm. She went, and, to his immense delight, reported that the mark was there. The poor man was so positive of her identity that the girl was awakened, and in the middle of the night was questioned as to her origin

She could only tell them that she did not know her parents; that her earliest recollections were that she had lived somewhere in the East with a family named ——, (naming the family she had been left with by the woman originally intrusted with her,) and at their death she was taken charge of by the Overseers of the Poor, a place provided for her, and she had come to Bucyrus with a family, and had supported herself by doing housework since.

This tallied so nearly with the already ascertained facts in the case that the next day the father started East with her, and, visiting the different points she had named, ascertained, to his great joy, that she was in truth his daughter.

She is an extremely beautiful girl, of great natural intelligence, and though totally uneducated, is still interesting.

She is now at Granville, Ohio, receiving an education to fit her for the new station she has assumed in life.

Swindling in Tennessee.—Mention has been made by the Nashville News that frauds of gross character had just been discovered there, as the acts of persons of high position and of official connection. The Gallatin paper of the 22d is more specific, saying that the defalcations run up to vast sums The chief defaulter is the Secretary of State, Dr T N W Burton, who has "vamosed." The clerk of the Controller's office, also, is charged with stuffing his pockets with coupons whenever he was in want of small change. The coupons were lying about "loose," it is said, begging to be booked. Dr Burton has heretofore borne an irreproachable character, and his lapse will be a source of great mortification to his family and friends. It is attributed to fast living and the toils of gambling.

More Swindles Stopped.—By a recent decision of the Postmaster General, all letters addressed to persons or firms known to be fictitious are to be at once forwarded to the Dead Letter Office, instead of being delivered to any person professing to represent the fictitious concern. All communications addressed to C E Todd & Co, Huntington & Co, Dr H James, the "Retired Physician," Monnett & Co, Dr Wallace, Dr Le Brun, Dr De Lorme, and a number of other bogus lottery, quack medicine, and obscene publication swindlers, will hereafter be sent at once to Washington, and the money they may contain returned to the senders.—New York Tribune.

The Revivals and the Abolitionists.—At the anniversary of the Abolition societies in New York, the following resolution was passed unanimously:

Resolved, That the "revival of religion," which has swept over the country with contagious rapidity during the last three months, is manifestly delusive and spurious, exceptional cases to the contrary notwithstanding because it has expressly excluded the millions in bondage from all consideration—has multiplied its converts as readily at the South as at the North—has excited no opposition in the midst of universal, all abounding corruption and profligacy—has received the sanction and co operation of the most pro slavery divines and journals in the land—has operated (as it was evidently designed) to strengthen a church which is "the bulwark of slavery," and to divert attention from the work of practical righteousness

Nebuchadnezzar's Hunting Diary.—A correspondent of the Northern Ensign says a book is shortly to be published by Colonel Rawlinson upon further discoveries he has made. He found Nebuchadnezzar's Hunting Diary, with notes, and here and there a portrait of his dogs, sketched by himself, with his name under it He mentions in it having been ill, and while he was delirous he thought he had been out to graze like beasts of the fields. Is not this a wonderful corroboration of scripture? Rawlinson also found a pot of preserves, in an excellent state, and gave some to the Queen to taste. How little Nebuchadnezzar's cook dreamed, when making them, that twenty-five centuries after, the Queen of England would eat some of the identical preserves which figured at her master's table.

Died.—On the morning of the 12th inst., Fannie Elosia, youngest daughter of Dr. James N. Banks, aged 4 years and five months

In connection with the above announcement there is an incident of sad and toughing interest. On rising from her bed in the morning, the child, without anything to call her attention to the subject, went to her father (whose wife recently died) and looking up to his face said: "Pa, I want to go where mamma is" Her father replied so as to divert her mind to other subjects, and the morning passed on as usual The child went to her play, and was seen between nine and ten o'clock sweeping with a little broom in the door yard About ten o'clock she was missed.

Search was made for her by the other members of the household, who not finding her, sent word to the Doctor who had gone to his office. He went immediately home and searched for the missing child. Observing the broom lying by a cistern, the cover of which was partly removed, search was made in the water for her body, and after several efforts it was there found. The body was taken out but little Elosia had gone "where mamma is"—Chicago Times.

Tapped too Low.—Mose is a good judge of human nature, and, in describing men and things, makes use of many quite original figures of speech some of which are more remarkable for force than for grace or elegance. Somebody, on one occasion, was praising a young lawyer as "a d ——ish smart fellow," and asked Mose if he didn't think he was about the tongiest man in the country? "Yes" said Mose, "smart talking man, but tapped too low" "What do you mean by that, Mose?" "Why just this—if you tap a barrel of cider too near the bottom it always runs emptins.' That man was tapped too low."

Is that So?—The Baptist Examiner says that sixty per cent of the money raised for charitable and religious purposes is used in 'office expenses,' in paying the salaries of those who collect money If that be so, it will be seen that out of every hundred dollars donated for the benefit of the heathen of Central Africa, sixty dollars are spent in the United States. Does not this look a little like robbery.

☞ Carefully compiled statistics show that twenty eight thousand five hundred and thirty one "laborers"—negroes, coolies and Yucatan Indians—were set on shore in Cuba since 1853, and that four thousand eight hundred and four unfortunates lost their lives in transitu—a mortality of sixteen and one fourth per cent. on the gross number delivered

Insurance Failures.—The New York Insurance Monitor, announces the failure of the following named Insurance Companies: Star of Ogdensburg, New York; Western of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; Garden City, Mercantile, and Chicago Mutual, of Chicago, Illinois.

☞ Sprinkle your Gooseberry bushes with soap suds; it prevents blight, destroys insects that are apt to infest the beshes, and make them grow rapidly and bear extensively. The same application on currant bushes is beneficial.

☞ At a late duel a second interfered, and proposed that the combatants should shake hands. To this the other appeared to object as unnecessary, "for said he, their hands have been shaking this half hour."

PILES! PILES! PILES!!

This hitherto intractable disease, of every form and in every stage,

CURED BY EXTERNAL APPLICATION ONLY

Dr. Cavanaugh's

PILE SALVE

WILL never fail in giving immediate relief, and positively curing the worst and most obstinate case of Hemorrhoids or Piles. It is the here or elsewhere for the Piles, and the result of years of patient study and investigations.

ONLY INFAILLIBLE REMEDY KNOWN

Sufferers from Piles now have a remedy at hand which will

Stand the Test of Trial,

without the fair of failure on its part to do all the proprietor claims for it,

Full directions accompanying each box; and all that is requisite is strictly to observe them, and a cure is certain to follow.

The proprietor refers to the following testimonials from gentlemen of character and standing, who have voluntarily given their certificates in its favor in regard to its efficacy in their own cases. Read them

The following is from one of the most reliable citizens of Chicago, the late Treasurer of Cook County Illinois:

Chicago July 25, 1855.

Dr. Cavanaugh:—Dear Sir,—I wish hereby to make known to the afflicted that I have been troubled with the Piles for twenty years and upwards, and at times most severely. And during a recent and exceedingly painful attack a friend procured a box of your Salve, and asked me to give it a trial I did so; not however with the expectation of benefitting my disease, for truly, I had tried so many applications I had lost confidence in all. But in making use of your Salve, I soon found that is was doing me good; and really it is incredible to myself, that with only about two weeks' use of your Salve, I am so far as I can judge a well man.

I most cheerfully make this statement, believing it due both to yourself and such as may be afflicted with this most painful and trying disease. I do not hesitate to say that I consider your preparation an invaluable remedy for the Piles.

Most sincerely yours, N. N. HEALD.

The Hon Richard Yates, late member of Congress from the Springfield, Ill., district, says:

Jacksonville, Ill., Nov. 15, 1855.

Dr. Thos. H. Cavanaugh.—Dear Sir,—The preparation, Cavanaugh's Pile Salve, which you furnished, I found of great service, producing an easy and speedy cure I do not hesitate to recommend it as an invaluable remedy for the Piles.

Respectfully, RICHARD YATES.

Since its first discovery, I have from time to time added various other herbs to it; of one of them, Hippocrates, the Father of Medicine, says "It is an herb of Jupiter, and on the sign Leo

"It openeth obstructions of the liver, gall and spleen; it is an especial friend to the liver, worth all other herbs put together; cooling it when too hot, and warming it when too cold.

"It createth an appetite, cureth all gone and sinking feelings in the pit of the stomach, easeth all pains and stitches in the side.

"It expels all raw, vicious and slimy humors out of the body; it cleanseth all inward ulcers and congealed blood from the kidneys

"By opening all obstructions of the spleen, it purgeth all burnt choler and melancholy vapors which riseth to the head and brain, causing distress ing headache, fearful foreboding of trouble trembling of the heart, fainting and swooning.

"The herb boiled in wine is particularly good to revive the drooping spirits of the aged, and whoever has a lingering sickness after a fever, nothing restoreth him to health so quick as drinking the juice of this herb

"The seeds boiled in water cureth the most offensive breath, and, drank at bedtime, preventeth what is commonly called nightmare, and all melancholy dreams, a disease bilious people are liable to

The Father of Medicine says of another herb in this composition that "it is an herb of the Sun, and in the sign of Leo.

"The sun is the source of all life, and raiseth the heart; and this herb is the best cordial, the greatest strengthener of the heart of any that grows; it comforteth the heart, cureth all palpitation thereof taketh away trembling, fainting and smothering of it; yet it must be take carefully, or severe grippings will ensue, which must be corrected with fennel seed or ginger.

"So much for this herb, between which and the adder there is the utmost antipathy, so much so that the adder will not touch him that has the herb about him."

D. J. HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS

Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Nausea, Constipation Flatulency, Lost of Appetite or any Bilious Complaints arising from a disordered action of the Stomach or Bowels producing Cramps Dysentery, Colic, Cholera Morbus, &c. &c.

All of these ills yield like magic tobs vilifying influence upon the system, and for a person to advanced years, or recovering from sickness of any kind, nothing can be more conducive to their convalescence than the use of these Bitters as per directions on the bottles.

Scarcely four years have elapsed since the first introduction of "Dr. J Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters" to the public, and such has been the success of this article after its tested efficacy by a discriminating public, that during the last year nearly half a million bottles were sold, with a continuous demand in excess of the supply with all the facilities the proprietors have been able to command in its preparation.

Are you dyspeptic? Then take these Stomach Bitters.

Are you bilious? Try one bottle of these Bitters, and be relieved at once.

Are you annoyed by indigestion or constipation? Remove the cause by the free use of these Bitters.

If you are fever and ague I owe many thousands in the West and South have been cured of this constitution destroying disease by the free use of these Bitters!

All should try this great Antidote. We venture to affirm that, when Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are used, a case of Fever and Ague cannot occur; therefore, no family consulting their own interest can afford to do without it.

A WORD TO THE LADIES.

Intercommending to your use Dr J Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters, it is but just to state that as a simulant to the system, in imparting strength and vigor, pregnancy to perfect healthy issues, which are of times attended with much pain and trouble, we know of no preparation more happily adapted to all afflictions consequent upon this cause, and for cramps in stomach, cholera morbus, and all affections arising from over indulgence in fruits, vegetables, ice creams, &c., it is certain and always instantaneous remedy, and no family should be without it.

One wineglassful taken three times each before meals, or half the quantity if the patients are in a weak condition, and increased in proportion to their strength, will be found a great tonic agent, which all will appreciate when personally satisfied of the facts, as they will be by giving the Bitters one trial.

☞CAUTION.☜

Carefulness should be our study, but more particularly when the health is at stake. Since these Bitters have, from their medical qualities, become so popular, there have been a great many connections called Stomach Bitters, and often represented to be the same in virtue as Dr Hostetter's, palmed upon the public. Recently of these vile spurious compounds! Our Bitters are put up in square quart bottles, and covered with the patent metallic cap, stamped "Hostetter's Stomach Bitters," and D. J Hostetter blown on the glass. All others are imitation.

The Portrait of a Kansas Hero.

With the subsidence of the Kansas excitement, the history of the men, their motives and character, who have represented and controlled the Free State movement in that Territory, are being developed. We present a picture of one of the heros of Bleeding Kansas, from the pen of an intimate friend; the portrait of a Republican chieftain, who had the sympathy of the Black Republican party in a pre-eminent degree, especially the moral and religious organization. The Chicago Times, in referring to the subject, says our readers will remember that ever since Jim Lane went to Kansas he has been the constant source of trouble and strife. It was owing to his ill advice that the Free State men refused to take part in the elections, and thus allowed the handful of Missourians to obtain control of the Legislature. It was owing to his bad advice that the Free State men refused to participate in the election of delegates to the Lecompton Convention, and thus allowed that body to fall into the hands of Calhoun and his associates. In all his miserality, in all his perfidious movements, he has been sustained and supported by one James Redpath, the celebrated correspondent, during 1855-'56, of the St. Louis Democrat, N. Y. Tribune and Chicago Tribune. He was the manufacturer of outrages, and the trumpeter of Jim Lane's glories. Recently, Redpath commenced the publication of a newspaper called the 'Crusader of Freedom,' at Doniphan, and to some extent Lane aided him by endorsing his paper, but not by any advance or loan of money. Redpath—who is a vigorous writer—and Lane have recently quarreled about business matters; and from the Crusader, of the 17th May, we select portions of very graphic descriptions of Lane, from Redpath. Coming from one who knows Lane well, they will be read with that confidence in their truth which is not generally entertained for Kansas stories.

The following are the extracts:

Lane Proposes to Assassinate Denver.

We are ready to swear, in any Court of Justice, or to make solemn affidavit of the fact, that General Lane intimated to us that if Governor Denver challenged him, he would have him put out of the way by the secret order known as the Danites.

Redpath's Virtue Revolts.

We thought that he could not be in earnest, but circumstances, subsequently ascertained, convinced us of our error. It was the corroboration of this intention that determined us, at whatever cost, to throw the human viper off. It will cost us everything we possess in Kansas, press, landed property and business prospects; but we prefer to be free and poor rather than to remain in the power of an assassin.

Lane's Private Character.

I knew comparatively little of Lane's private character before I came to Doniphan; but my frequent intercourse with him since, has fully unfolded it. It have found him to be a man utterly devoid of principle—without the faintest shadow of a shade of conscience—unscrupulous and daring, but cowardly and snake-like in his policy. He would ruin a friend or a woman with as little compunction as he would eat an egg, and would take pleasure in doing it if it would advance his ambition by a single hairs-breath. I solemnly declare that I never knew him to perform a disinterested action, except in two instances only: once, in Nebraska, in assisting fugitives to escape; once, in Leavenworth, in giving a dollar to a citizen for a widow in destitute circumstances. He even blurred both of these acts by cursing me among his own men for, refusing to take the negroes as prisoners back to Kansas, with my companies of armed immigrants, although he privately made arrangements with me to send a man from Iowa immediately to take them over the Missouri River.

Lane's Respect for Women.

He insisted, also, that the widow should know who gave the dollar. If he has seen her since and did not try to seduce her, the fact should be mentioned as a remarkable incident by his future biographer.

* * * * * * *

Lane's Desire to be President.

He wished me to advocate his claims to the Presidency. I told him that if a new man was to be chosen by the Republican party, I would vote for Frank Blair, of Missouri, and refused to mention him in connection with any office whatever. He 'looked hell' at me—to adopt his own choice language, but said nothing about it.

On another occasion he told me—the request sounded like a command—to praise him for his magnanimity.

More Assassination.

As a few weeks before, he had tried to make me the agent for assassinating Robt. S. Kelly—as he was then pursuing Mr Shephard—with whom he quarrelled when he could not make him a tool—with a malignity which it would be sinfulness to characterize as infernal, I peremptorily refused to do so.

The Danites of Kansas.

Lane organized a Club of Danites in Doniphan County. I became a member of it. Although attending it, he attempted, on the second night of his meeting, to make me the agent to induce the club to kill Bob Kelly. He saw that my unlucky indebtedness to him, did not give him a sufficient hold over me—that some day, if he again dared to attempt to rule my editorial course I would throw my property in his face and defy him. He wished, therefore, to engage me in a criminal enterprise—then I would be his slave for ever. I never hated Lane till he asked me to do this deed. I did indeed despise him from the bottom of my soul, but I did not believe him to be capable of a scheme so diabolical—to involve a young man, without any cause, in a criminal act of private revenge. It was so cowardly, contemptible and hellish, that I left him without saying a word. I need hardly add that I did not put my neck in his halter, that I did not choose to become his assassin, tha Bob Kelly was not killed, or that Lane, after creating the disturbance in Doniphan, on his next visit to the town, entertained us with "magnanimous" and conservative speeches.

Lane's Sacrilege.

It was to be expected that the secret rider should appear in public as a conservator of the peace; it was in keeping with the character of the man who could, in Indiana, as an eminent citizen of that State, a friend of his, who knew the fact, declared—went from the bed of a communicant where he had passed the night, to a Christian Church in the morning, and partook of the holy sacrament of the Lord's Supper.

Lane a Curse to Kansas.

I determined now, after I had thus seen how he had intended to ruin me, to watch him with ceaseless, untiring vigilance, until I could obtain legal proof against him—not to use it in a court of justice, but privately to compel him to abandon his hopes of high office in the party he disgraces and degrades, and to leave the Territory to which his presence, excepting on two occasions only has been a great and almost unmitigated curse.

But I found there is danger, while watching an anaconda, of being crushed in its loathsome folds.

I am not the only young man whom he has tried to use for his cowardly schemes of secret and criminal revenge; and he may find, too, that he has reckoned without his host in more cases than in mine.

A Delicate Subject.

That "one hundred dollar loan," which was never borrowed—? Lane, I will spare you that history for the lady's sake. I do not wish to drive from you any purifying influence: for God knows that you need it, and he may have sent her, whom you wronged so foully, as and angel of mercy to save you from becoming yet more devilish than you now are, and to rekindle the lamp of conscience in your dark and murky soul.

But beware, Lane, beware! for I have not told all that I know yet. J. E.

Woman's Will.

The following beautiful story has been published in different forms, but none so good as the original:

Sir Hugo had reached his fiftieth year, unscathed by passion, save an ardent one for a flowing goblet. Instead of love-passion, his delight was in tournaments, whence he always returned victorious. At length he was flung from the saddle of his indifference by the beardless title Love! He was Angelica, the fairest maiden of the land, forgot his grey hairs, and mentindful of the incongruity of an union between May and December, led her to the nuptial altar. Fortunately, Angelica was as modest as she was fair, and her firm virtue repulsed the numerous butterflies that swarmed around the opening flowers of her beauty. Sir Hugo knew the tried virtue of his consort, and therefore she was to him dear and precious as the apple of his eye.

One morning he rode to pay a visit to a neighboring Baron in arms, his honest Squire Conrade trotting after him. Scarcely had they proceeded half way, when the knight suddenly stopped and cried—

"Come here, Comrade; a most tormenting thought has just occurred to me. This is the very day that Father Nicholas comes to the castle to say mass for my dear wife and myself, and I am not at all inclined to have him in my shade during my absence; so gallop back and desire your lady, in my name not to admit the priest."

Comrade paused and shook his head as if in doubt, and replied, "Excuse me, noble Sir, but perhaps the lady Angelica, if left to her own discretion, will do what you wish."

"A curse on your perhaps!" exclaimed the knight; "I make all sure by giving the order."

"Do you think so?" replied the squire; "now I in my simplicity, believe exactly the contrary. Take the advice of you faithful servant for once in your life; let things take their course, and give no order upon so delicate a point."

"A fig for your delicacy!" cried Sir Hugo, angrily; "what absurd fancies you have got into your brain to-day! Do you think an hour ride a task so very tedious."

"Oh! if it comes to that, sir," rejoicing Conrade, "I have no more to say."

He put spurs to his horse, and rode back to the castle.

Angelica saw him galloping up, and cried in terror, from the window, "what has brought you back in such haste? Has any accident happened to my lord?"

"None whatever, my gracious lady," answered Conrade, "but the noble knight was apprehensive that some accident might happen you, if by any chance you took a fancy to ride Sultan."

"I ride—ride the large greyhound?" exclaimed Angelica, in utter astonishment. "I believe you are drunk or mad. It is impossible that your master could have so ridiculous a message."

"Aye but he did, though," paused the squire; "and my noble master said at the same time, that he knew Sultan would bite terribly, not being accustomed to be made a pony of; and he therefore begs that you will not attempt to divert yourself in than way." Having said this he again mounted his horse and galloped off to rejoin his master.

"Am I awake, or do I dream?" ejaculated Angelica. "The folly of Sir Hugo is so strange that I almost attempted to believe it all a wild dream. What does he mean? It is not enough that I have hitherto tried to read his every will and wish, and, when known, obeyed them implicitly; and do I deserve that he should stretch his power so far, and play the capricious, haughty tyrant? Now I see that, to be too submissive too softly compliant, is not the way to treat him; the worm that crawls the dust is trampled upon. But no, Sir Knight, it is not gone quite so far with us yet, in spite of you I will ride Sultan, and you may think yourself, as but for your message such a thing would never have entered my head."

Her soliloquy was here interrupted by the entrance of a servant, who informed her that Father Nicholas had arrived, and was in the antechamber. "I cannot receive his visit to day," said the consort to Sir Hugo, for my lord is absent. Give this as my excuse to the reverend father, and beg him return to-morrow. With all due respects to father Nicholas," continued she, when left to herself, he shall not spoil my present ride. Now if my pony were but here. Ha! here comes my gait, and his teeth I dare say, are not to be trifled with. Oh! how shall I delight in this two-fold pleasure of showing the surly old fellow that I care neither for him nor his orders and of trying a pastime that is at least a novel one." Through every corner of the house re-sounded now her cry of Sultan.

"Here, boy! Sultan! Sultan!"

The immanent and docile animal sprang from a bone upon which he was feasting, and was at her side in an instant. Caressing him till she has got him into a room, the door of which was shut:

"Now, friend Sultan," cried his fair mistress, "no growl, no bite, and all is safe." With her snow white hand she continued stroking and patting his huge back for some minutes and then, in the hope that if only through gratitude he would comply with her fancy, she mounted her new steed. He showed his teeth a little, in some doubt what all that meant, but she soothed him again into a good humor and patient endurance of the novel burden; but he thought this quite enough, and did not stir from the one spot. Angelica was naturally not much pleased with being thus stationary; she therefore gently goaded him with her leg, but no trot would Sultan condescend; he remained motionless as before, while something very like a growl escaped from his immense and fear inspiring jaws. One fall patience, she now exclaimed:

"You shall feel the spur then, you lazy brute," and drove her heel into his side. He now growled audibly, but stirred not an inch; she repeated her blow. This was too much for canine patience; he made a spring, and as she fell full length upon the floor, he turned and bit her hand. The dismounted rider endowed the floor with a few tears, and then sprang up to turn out of the room the encumbrous brute who had thus rudely shewn how little he understood play.

Toward evening Sir Hugo returned and inquired with suspicious haste whether Father Nicholas had been there.

"Oh, yes, he was here," answered Angelica, "but I ventured to refuse his admittance."

The knight cast a triumphant glance at his squire, and whispered him, "Now, old Wisdom, do you see the use of my orders?"

Conrade, who, as may be supposed, had said not hing of the alteration he made in the substance of his embassy shrugged his shoulders with a smile unperceived by his master, who had turned again to his consort, and first perceived that she wore a bandage upon her left hand. He immediately inquired the cause.

"Sultan bit me," said Angelica, "and it is all your fault, Sir Hugo," added she, sobbing.

"My fault!" cried the knight.

"Yes, your fault, and nobody's but yours," retorted his spouse. "If you had not sent me word by Comrade not to ride the nasty, mischievous brute, such a mad trick would never have entered my head."

In mute astonishment the knight hurried to seek an explanation from his squire, who had slipped away when Angelica began her complaint.

"What message did you bring your lady?" demanded he.

Comrade now confessed the truth.

"Were these the orders I gave you, you scoundrel?" cried the enraged Sir Hugo.

"Certainly not," replied the squire, "but you will own that I have made my point good. You may now see how it would have been had I given your order about the young priest. My noble lady is a model for her sex, and almost an angel, but still she is a daughter of Eve, who meant to have bequeathed to all her lineal female descendants her own spirit of perverseness. And we have only to remember the Lady Angelica's pleasant ride upon Sultan, to be convinced that it had lost none of its vigor in the descent.

Charles Sumner.

CHARLES SUMNER, the notorious, if not distinguished, Senator from Massachusetts, has set sail for France, just as the most important business of Congress was about to be consummated. His absence, however, will not be missed in that body, for he never devoted himself to its practical business, and was one of its least useful members. Before the unfortunate rencounter with Mr. Brooks all that that he had done was to deliver annually a philippic against slavery, which consprised the sum total of his Senatorial duties. Since the rencounter he has been in his seat but little, upon the pretense of ill-health, but really because he has sank into the most complete insignificance even with his own political friends. The champion of freedom and the "martyr SUMNER," as he was called after his disgraceful tirade of personalities against the venerable Butler, of South Caroline, and the State which he represented, had led to an unfortunate and unjustifiable attack upon him by Mr. Brooks, has of late received but little attention, and has lost what popularity that affair, for the time, gave him, and is as politically dead as his lamented antagonist, Mr. Brooks. The best thing that he can do is to stay in Europe and never come back, for he is a complete specimen of an American snob, who will be more at home in the capitals of European aristocracy, where he loves court, than he is in that of the American Democracy. His address to the people of Massachusetts, upon leaving New York, is silly and affected performance, quite worthy of the exquisite who wrote it.—Cin. Enq.

More Republican Bribery—Startling Disclosures of Official Corruption.—A Legislative committee of Wisconsin, has been for some time investigating charges of corruption and fraud in the passage of the act by which nearly all the lands which the State receives from the general government were transferred in 1856, to certain railroad companies. The committee have just made their report, and it discloses the grossest and vilest system of official corruption which by its exposure has yet shocked the moral sense of the country. The Executive and Legislature of the State were shamelessly bought up, and induced to transfer to a railroad company millions worth of land, without any consideration therefor. The principal bargain was made with the Milwaukie and La Crosse Railroad. The report details the amount of stock and bonds given to the members of the Legislature who voted for the bill, and to the State officers, judges, and other parties, who lent their influence to secure its passage. Below will be found the sum total of the amount distributed, and the parties who were the recipients, presenting evidence that holding office in Wisconsin is not an empty honor:

Governor of State	$30,000
Governor's Private Secretary	50,000
State Officers	20,000
Supreme Court	1,000
18 State Senators	200,000
66 Assemblymen	353,000
Legislative Clerks	17,000
Editors and others	261,000
Grand total	$933,000

They were only four members of the Assembly who voted for the bill without receiving any consideration! Gov Bashford got $50,000 in bonds. One Senator refused to accept the amount apportioned to him—$10,000. A beautiful specimen of official depravity!

Gov. Bashford who received the snug sum of $15,000 has his share of the spoils, is a very saint of a Republican, and is regarded as the great gun of his party in Wisconsin. Most of the others implicated in this startling scheme of corruption are also members of the same immaculate party.

A Mooted Question Settled.—The editor of the Rushville (Illinois) Times, under the head of "Romance in Schuyler County," answers affirmatively the long-mooted question, whether a woman can keep a secret. He proves it by relating the particulars of a romance—the facts of which occurred in that vicinity. An elderly couple had a young and beautiful daughter, an only child, upon whom they lavished all their affections. Two years ago a young man applied to them for work, and they employed him. His goodness of heart, his amiable qualities and industry soon won their confidence. He had been in their employ six months, when the farmer, having business at Beardstown, sent the young man to attend to it, and as the daughter had some purchases to make, she was allowed to go with him. At night they returned. Affairs went on for eighteen months, the only change being the pleasure with which old people discovered that the young folks were daily becoming attached to each other, and they looked forward to their marriage as a result most gratifying. Being considered as "lovers," the young people were allowed to "sit up" together after the old folks retired; but one night, two weeks ago, the old gentleman, feeling unwell, rose up and not finding his daughter in her own bed, where she ought to have been, looked elsewhere, and found her where he thought she should not have been. Much noise and confusion ensued. Next day the farmer posted at full speed to Beardstown, had an interview with the keeper of the county records, and discovered that the aforesaid young man and woman had been legally joined in marriage for eighteen months, and she had never told any person of the fact.

Extraordinary Escape from the Michigan State Prison.—The Detroit Free Press gives the particulars of the escape from the State Prison, a few nights since, of a negro named Dan, formerly of Detroit. He was a desperate villain, and so dangerous that he was confined in a "safe cell" and heavily shackled with irons. It would seem that the cell is so constructed as to screen the occupant from the observation of keepers. The irons he cut off by some means, and then dug through the stone walls of his cell, bending and breaking heavy iron plates, and moving stones of upward of a hundred weight. Having accomplished this herculean feat without detection, he constructed a lantern from a tin can which he had in his cell, and went into the workshops, where he selected an iron weapon, with which he no doubt intended to knock out the brains of any man who opposed him. He also found material's from which he constructed a sort of ladder, with which he scaled the walls. He then stole a horse worth $200, belonging to one of the attaches of the prison, and made off. He left his prison clothes in the yard, having, it is thought, made new clothes of the blankets which he had in his cell. He was tracked ten miles his flight having been discovered about three hours after it occurred, and was then lost.

Perils of the West.—A New York gentleman reported unusually happy in his domestic relations as husband and father, recently met with an accident which came near involving serious consequences. Having occasion to pass through Indiana on his way to the west, and while the Legislature was in session, he was casually detained over night in the capital of the State. At breakfast next morning he was astonished to see in the State Journal, an announcement of his decease from his bachelor partner whom he left in N. Y. City.

Either by accident or design of some practical joker, a bill had been presented to the Legislature, on the evening of his arrival, and passed immediately.

He was compelled to hurry back to New York to be re married, and has commenced a suit against Indiana for damages.

SATTRDAY, JUNE 5, 1858.

Congress is hurrying up business, and preparing to return home next Thursday, on which day both Houses have agreed to adjourn. Several protracted sessions have been introduced in relation to the course of the British squadron in the Gulf, and much belligerent talk indulged in, but no definite action has been had

Confirmation of Gov. Wright.—We take the following from the State Sentinel, of Monday:

"A telegraphic dispatch from a prominent citizen of Indiana, now in Washington, states authoritatively that the President will send the name of Gov. Wright to the Senate, as minister to Berlin, and that his appointment will be confirmed."

Health of Gov. Willard.—We are gratified to be able to announce that Gov. Willard is now out of danger, and gradually recovering his health. The State Sentinel of Wednesday says:—"It gives us pleasure to state that Gov. Willard is convalescing. He is yet quite to ill, unable to sit up, but there is every reasonable prospect of his restoration to sound health. Under the most favorable circumstances, it will be some weeks before he will be able to attend to business."

Revolution in New Orleans.—The City of New Orleans has long been under the control of know nothingism, and as a natural result has been the daily scene of murders, riots, and outrages of the most sanguinary die. Rowdyism was rampant, and murder stalked the streets at noontide. The perpetrators in many instances were members of the police force, and in others were their friends and proteges. No redress could be had, and it had become as much as a man's life was worth to attempt to bring the ruffians to justice. The orderly citizens of that oppressed city have at length resolved to rid themselves of the curse imposed on them, and have risen in their might, seized the arsenal, appointed a Vigilance Committee to supersede the imbecile and corrupt city government, and express a determination to purge the city of the murderous ruffians who have so long committed outrages with impunity. It is to be hoped they will make a thorough job and mete out rigid and unsparing justice on the wretches, not leaving one to renew the difficulties after the present excitement may have subsided. The character, reputation, and prosperity of the city alike demand such a course, and the Vigilance Committee may rely on the support and countenance of good citizens in all parts of the country if they strictly administer the most rigid justice, without fear or favor, on all the ruffians who may fall into their hands

Westward the Star of Empire, &c.—Many of our citizens for the past two or three years have been taken off with the western or prairie fever, and gone to Iowa. We have frequently attempted to prescribe for such cases, and recommended the unhappy victims to stay at home if they knew when they are well off.—Numbers now have seen cause to regret that they did not take our advice To those who are still suffering, we commend the following experience of an Iowa farmer, published in the Western Farmer:—

"We have warm, rainy weather now; mud nearly knee deep. Everybody is complaining of hard times. Wheat is worth but forty cents a bushel delivered at the railroad, and that in rags at fifteen per cent. discount. There has been good wheat sold at Tipton within a week at twenty cents a bushel for gold. Many of my neighbors have sold their corn for ten and twelve cents per bushel and as good corn as there is in the county. Corn is heating and spoiling in almost all parts of Iowa. I have conversed with a number of owners of threshing machines, and they say that the wheat of Cedar county will not quite average, for the last year, twenty bushels per acre.—Merchants and creditors are coaxing and selling property for a mere song.—Some are giving up their lands after the first payments have been made and considerable improvements done. Some farmers are paying five per cent. a month for money. There will not be as much wheat sown this year as last. Some are going to quit almost entirely the present year. They think it will not pay to raise wheat at the present prices, or at the prospect of future rates"

Now, we would ask seriously what there is in such a truthful picture of the state of affairs in Iowa to induce any rational man to sacrifice a well improved farm here, by selling it below its real value, leave behind him all the comforts and conveniences of civilization, the advantages of good roads, schools, and a sure and good market such as we always have in Fort Wayne, and plunge into a wilderness, where he must pay twice as much for land as he sold his own for, have to carry his scanty produce for long distances over almost impassable roads, and then sell it at such prices as are given above? It appears to us, as it must to every unprejudiced observer, that cheap land, large crops, and good prices here, are better than dear land; poor crops, and wretched prices either in Iowa or any other new country.

What land may be worth in Iowa at present, or whether it has any real value, we are not prepared to say; but previous to the late revulsion, it is a well known fact that a farm in Iowa was rated at least double what an equally good one here, with the same or even greater advantages in location, contiguity to market, &c., could be purchased for. This matter is beginning to be understood now; we hear of comparatively few cases of this distressing western epidemic at this time; and we trust those few may by good advice and nursing, and being kept cool and free from excitement, be speedily brought to a state of convalescence.

To those in the east, seeking a new location, we would advise a visit to Allen County, where an abundance of first rate land, either wild lands or improved farms, can be had cheap—far cheaper than in any of the newer counties further west. We venture to assert that no place in the west offers greater inducements to enterprising settlers. Land is cheap, crops sure and good, and above all, we have one of the best markets here that can be found, and the farmer is sure of remunerating prices, paid in Cash, for all his supplies. The many difficulties and privations inseparable from this first settlement of any new country are removed and overcome, and new settlers find the advantages and conveniences of an old and well settled country. To all seeking a new home we cordially extend an invitation. Come here, and your most sanguine expectations will be more than realized.

To mechanics and business men our prosperous and rising city also offers as great inducements as our country does for farmers. Property is still comparatively low; our city is rapidly growing, and with its numerous railroads and other facilities, and the vast scope of rich country to which it will always be the market, cannot fail to become a point of much commercial importance For manufacturing purposes it is admirably adapted; the great resources of the surrounding country, and the conveniences of exporting to all parts of the Union, point this out as a desirable location for a manufacturing town. Our manufactures are as yet in their infancy—or rather this branch of profitable industry has been almost entirely overlooked. A fine field is here opened for the enterprising, and any branch of manufactures established here would to a certainty prove remunerative. We might dwell on the subject and extend our remarks to an almost indefinite extent; but we forbear, and invite all wishing to improve their condition, to come here, look around them carefully and deliberately, and then judge for themselves.

Important to Dealers in Bogus.—In the United States District Court, on Wednesday, ——— Allen, one of the Lagrange counterfeiters was put on his trial for passing bogus quarters. It was proved that he had counterfeits in his possession, and he admitted purchasing and disposing of the same: but as it was not proved that he had passed them with fraudulent intent, the jury, under direction of the Court, acquitted him! He was then arraigned on a charge of passing bogus half dollars, the result of which we have not learned.

This is truly a strange construction of law, calculated to foster and encourage the business of counterfeiting, by protecting the dealer in bogus from arrest. He may dispose of it by wholesale, as counterfeit, without fraudulent intent, because the buyers know what it is, and he does not represent it to be otherwise. If they attempt to pass it as genuine, they may be punished; but the prime mover in the iniquity—he who supplies it wholesale to the scamps who circulate it—escapes scot free! Laws may well be likened to cobwebs, which catch small flies, but allow large ones to break through.

If this is to be an established rule of law the regulators must hereafter take a change of venue in all cases where they get hold of the principals—the wholesale dealers—and try them before JUDGE LYNCH. His court is more impartial, and does not draw such nice distinctions in favor of the greater criminals, but places them on a wholesome democratic equality with the smaller fry of rascals.

Naval Force in the Gulf.—The United States have now in the gulf, or under orders to proceed there, eight vessels of war, carrying 140 guns. The British have thirteen ships and steamers, and four gun boats, carrying in the aggregate 357 guns.

Dreadful Tornado in Illinois—Village Destroyed and Nineteen Persons Killed!—The village of Ellison, in Warren Co. Illinois, situate about five miles south of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, was almost entirely destroyed by a most appalling tornado which swept over it on Sunday afternoon last, prostrating or rather tearing to atoms almost every building in the place, and instantly killing fourteen persons; five others have since died, and nearly 50 more are seriously, some of them fatally, injured The bodies of some of the unfortunate victims are described as being literally torn to pieces, and their fragments scattered in all directions. It was the most awful visitation of the kind ever witnessed in this country, more resembling in its horrors and fury the terrible elemental commotions of the tropics, than any thing ever before known in the calmer regions of the temperate zone.

ARREST.—J Cudnell, of this city, was arrested by the Deputy U S. Marshal on Tuesday night, and was taken to Indianapolis for trial. We have not heard the grounds of the arrest, but presume it to be a charge of counterfeiting

Curious Calculation—Speaking of the amount of specie in the world, Peterson's Philadelphia Counterfeit Detector says:—"It has been computed that if we estimate the solid gold of gold at ten millions of dollars, which it is in round numbers, all the gold in the world might, if welded into ingots, be contained in a cellar twenty-four feet square, and sixteen feet high. All the boasted wealth already obtained from California and Australia, would go into an iron safe nine feet square, and nine feet high—so small is the echo of yellow metal that has set populations on the march, and roused the whole world to wonder."

DANDRUFF.—We refer all suffering from diseases of the teeth—and their name is legion—to the advertisement of Dr. Mawson, surgeon dentist, who designs settling among us. He brings the highest testimonials of his profession al skill, and having had 20 years experience in his profession, in various parts of the world, he can warrant to give entire satisfaction to all who call upon him.

Professor Palmer's Lectures on Phrenology, Physiology, &c., draw large audiences, and appear to give general satisfaction. He is a fluent and pleasing speaker, thoroughly posted in the matter he elucidates, and contrives to keep his audience in the best possible humor and attract their undivided attention to the subject of his lecture. He has quite an extensive cabinet of portraits of distinguished men and natives of all climes, scalls, busts, &c., with which he illustrates his lectures. He also attends in the hall through the day and gives phrenological charts to those who submit their bumps for his examination.

Mrs. Palmer will commence a course of Lectures on Physiology, for females only, this afternoon.

By his advertisement in another column, it will be seen that the subject of the o lectures will be changed on Wednesday next.

Peterson's Philadelphia Counterfeit Detector of 1st June contains a list of 36 new counterfeits detected since the previous issue of 15th May! Counterfeiting would seem to be on the increase, notwithstanding the efforts of the regulators for its suppression, and all business men need a good and reliable Detecter for their protection from fraud. Such an one we believe Peterson's to be. The Philadelphia Public Ledger says of it:—"The June number, just issued, contains a perfect list of all the counterfeits, broken banks and rates of discount on bank notes. The objection brought against many of the counterfeit detecters published elsewhere, that they are merely vehicles for levying black mail, cannot be urged against this, for the character of the publishers, T. B. Peterson & Bros., and of the editors, Drexel & Co., are above suspicion." We would advise all persons to subscribe to this Detecter at once. The price is only one dollar a year, monthly, or two dollars a year for it, semi-monthly.

The Weather continues unsettled and wet; the streams are high, and the bottom lands overflowed; but little corn has yet been planted, and it is now getting too late to plant with any reasonable hope of the corn's ripening, unless some of the small, northern varieties could be procured. The farmer's prospects are rather gloomy.

Messrs WILLIAMS & HEBERTS have commenced the manufacture of candies in this city on an extensive scale, and are prepared to furnish either stick or fancy candy to any extent on the shortest notice. Their candies are far better than the Buffalo or Cincinnati article usually sold here, and they will be sold at the same prices. Dealers will make money find at the same time gratify the taste of their customers by procuring their supplies from this establishment.

Home to whom home is due.—We copy from the Piqua Enquirer the following just and complimentary notice of our energetic sheriff, W. Fleming and his associate, Mr Commins, Sheriff of Lagrange:—More than 20 stolen horses have been restored to their owners within the last 4 months by these vigilant officers.

Stolen Horses Recovered:—Through the perseverance and indefatigable exertions of the Sheriffs of Allen and Lagrange counties, Indiana, Messrs Fleming and Commins, the horses stolen from J & W Hamilton, and Joseph Hilliard, of this vicinity, some nineteen months ago, were recently recovered and returned to their owners. Too much praise cannot be awarded these officers for their efforts in breaking up the gangs of outlaws, who infest the Hoosier State and bringing them to the merited punishment they deserve The people of that section owe them a debt of gratitude, which we are sure they will discharge at some future day, and the gentlemen here speak of them in the highest terms, as liberal and high minded gentlemen.

Official Bribery in Iowa.—On our first page we publish an account of the Wisconsin bribery case, and now comes another report of the like proceedings in Iowa. The Dubuque Herald says:

More Republican Corruption.—We have just received the report of the special committee, appointed by the House of Representatives at the late session of our Legislature to investigate the alleged frauds in the location of the Capital at Des Moines. We had heard of the charges of dishonesty and bribery against the Republican Commissioners, or a majority of them, who were appointed by a Republican Legislature to relocate the Capital; but this report now before us makes known and confirms a greater amount of rascality on the part of those commissioners than we had even heard

Evidence is given to show that they received as a personal and private bribe, more than fifty thousand dollars worth of property

Certain witnesses, namely, Messrs Baldwin, Scott, Williamson, and Mitchell, refused to answer and to testify to certain most important parts in the investigation, and though the Committee reported them contumacious witnesses to the House; yet the Republican House neglected or refused to compel them to testify By this act, which it behooves the people of Iowa to notice, the Republican House attempted to throw a cloak over the dishonesty and villainy of the Commissioners.

The Shylock of Mount Vernon.—The Southern press is pretty generally denouncing John A. Washington as the "Shylock of Virginia," for having made the most he could out of his country's reverence for his ancestor's bones, in selling the Mount Vernon estate for $200,000, when but for being the burial place of Washington, it would not be worth $10,000—thereby making $190,000 out of the bones of the father of his country. Few Yankees could drive a sharper bargain than this old Virginia gentleman has done.

The New Orleans Picayune, says: There should be some recognition of this sordid speculation. Nothing occurs to us more fitting, if it were only possible, than that the ladies should make it a further condition, that after the purchase is completed, the seller shall formally renounce the name of Washington, and adopt some other for himself. It would only require a bonus of a few thousand more to obtain his consent, and there is not a legislature extant that would not pass a law, unanimously and gladly, to legalize the change.

WASHINGTON, May 28.

A movement is in progress contemplating the co operation of all the opposition elements of the Administration in the People's Party of the Union. The main features proposed by the organization are, ignoring all questions productive of sectional strife, the protection of popular rights, a judicious system of internal improvements, a settled and firm foreign policy, prevention of the landing of foreign and criminal paupers, the protection of the ballot box, and an extended period of residence after naturalization as a condition to the exercise of the elective franchise, fostering American genius and art. Every Territory rising into a State, to have a constitution and laws framed by citizens of the United States, who are permanent inhabitants under such rules as Congress may prescribe.

WASHINGTON, May 26.

The House of Representatives threw off its apathy yesterday, and dismissed the private calendar by wholesale. Ninety bills were passed. Notwithstanding the start, the day's business were exceedingly bad, from the objections interposed on both sides Three appropriations were also carried, by one of which, that for the ocean Mail Service, the Postmaster General, is virtually authorized to make contracts at discretion which are now regulated by law. The Senate devoted the day to the Miscellaneous Bill, which is partially a substitute for the old Omnibus, upon which everything is piled that cannot be borne by any other.

Mr. Mason, from the Committee on Foreign Relations, submitted a report in regard to the British outrages. The document is clear and pointed, without being offensive in tone, and stops short of the voluntary movement which was made by Mr. Douglas, much to the surprise of some of his friends, for investing the President with a power that has never yet been conferred on any predecessor.

WASHINGTON, May 30.

An animated debate occurred in the Senate, yesterday, upon the report and resolutions from the Committee on Foreign Relations. There seemed to be much rivalry between the representatives men of the various interests, to take the lead in belligerent demonstrations, and it is difficult to determine, whether Toombs, Douglas, Mallory, Hale, or Wilson, was most emphatic in their utterances. Douglas signalized himself especially, by urging that increased power should be placed in the hands of the President—a power which Mr. Garnett, of Va., denounced in the House, as inaugurating a "military despotism."

Mr. Hale moved to amend the resolutions by a clause, declaring the offensive acts to be hellinecent in their character, and ought to be resisted by all the power of the Government; and Mr. Wilson of Mass., not to be outdone, went a step further, and proposed that the President should be authorized and empowered to employ the naval force of the United States, and send the same to the scenes of the recent outrages with instructions to capture the ships which have committed, or may commit these belligerent acts.

Mr. Mason endeavored to press a vote on the resolutions, but notwithstanding all the explosions, a majority decided to give them the go by and take up the Appropriation Bills. And what is most remarkable in this connection, is the fact, that the rank and file of the Democracy voted for the latter. They do not like a war spirit, which is generalled by such heroic hearts Seward, Hale, and Wilson

The rest of the day was consumed by the Senate upon the discussion upon the Civil Appropriation bill, in which the grants for continuing Custom Houses that had been rejected by the House, and other large items, were most considered. They adjourned, leaving the bill pending. The House gave another day to neglected private claimants, and thus partially redeemed one of their short-comings at this session.

The Ocean Steamer Bill, appropriating nearly two millions of dollars, went through the House with entire ignorance of a provision which invests the Postmaster General with discretionary contracts, always heretofore regulated by law. At present the Liverpool, Southampton and Bremen lines, are carrying the mails for the ocean postage, and they might at least continue to do so until Congress could afford the necessary time to revise the system and establish it on some substantial foundation

Correspondence of the N Y. Evening Post.

British Aggressions—I learn that Lord Napier has had under serious consideration the subject of going to Halifax to avoid the unpleasant discussion now going on in Congress in relation to British outrages. This gentleman thinks that his government will make a satisfactory explanation to the United States, and will disapprove the conduct of British officers in searching American vessels in the Gulf. Lord Napier, report says, was much grieved at the debate in the Senate on Saturday, expressing the opinion that it was very unfriendly and war like character. Rumor says that opinions have been expressed by members of the British embassy, that the menacing attitude of the United States will have the tendency to strengthen the alliance between France and England, and that in the event of an attack of one of our ships of war upon a British vessel, England will promptly declare war against the United States, and will be promptly be sustained by France. It is proper to say in this connection, that Lord Napier, has stated, unofficially, that in the event of a naval conflict in the Gulf between the two powers, and the capture of a British vessel by the United States ship of war, he would not consider it a sufficient cause for a declaration of war, but that it would be a matter that could be easily settled by negotiation.

NEW YORK, May 29.

It is rumored that Lord Napier has dispatched a vessel hence ordering the British Admiral of the Gulf squadron to abstain from further interference until further advices were received from England. The rumor is considered improbable.

NEW YORK, June 1.

From Havana.—The steamer Cahawba, from Havana, May 30th, arrived this morning.

The English officer who boarded the American vessels at Sagua La Grande has been arrested and sent to Jamaica—one account says for exceeding his instructions another for allowing himself and marines to be driven from the deck of the ship Gentle.

The barque Reliance was boarded off Cuba by a boat from a British steamer.

The brigh Geo. H. Chase was hailed but refused to stop and was not molested.

Advices from Havana at Vera Cruz state that the prisoners taken at Tampica by Gen. Mejia had all been shot

HALIFAX, June 4.

Lord Napier's Dispatches—A steamer left this morning for Bermuda with Lord Napier's instructions to the British Admiral in relation to the visitation process.

NEW ORLEANS, June 2d.

Walker's Trial Concluded.—Walker's trial is concluded. The jury disagree.—10 for acquittal and 2 for conviction. Judge Campbell's charge was extremely partial and stringent. A new trial was urged immediately by Walker.

Revolution in New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, June 3d.

A revolution broke out here last night. A vigilance committee in large numbers took possession of the arsenal in Jackson square and the prisoners this morning The Executive Committee calls for all true and order people to join them, and announces their determination to carry their measures out.

At 7 o'clock A M., nothing further had transpired. Loaded cannon are posted about the arsenal and 200 armed men are on guard

The following address appeared this morning: "To the Citizens of New Orleans:—After years of disorder, outrage and unchecked assassination the people unable and unwilling to bow down in ourselves submission to a set of ruffians, or to abandon the city in which their business, their social sympathies, and their affections cluster, have at length risen in their might; have quietly taken possession of the arsenals and buildings in Jackson square, and have established there the head quarters of Vigilance Committee; pledging each to the other to maintain the rights inviolate of every peaceable and law abiding citizens; to restore public order, and abate crime, and expel or punish as they may determine, such notorious robbers and assassins as the arm of the law has, either from the infidelity of its public servants, or the expediency of the law, themselves unwhipped of justice."

For the present the ordinary machinery of police justice is superced, the Mayor and Recorder yielding up their power. They confess their inability to exercise it for the preservation of the public peace and the protection of property; and the Vigilance Committee will act provisionally in their stead, administering to each and every malefactor the punishment due to their crime, without heat, prejudice, or political bias All citizens who sympathize in this movement and who think the time has come when New Orleans shall be preserved like all other well ordered and civilized communities, will report themselves without delay at the principal office, where the character of this movement will be explained and the determination of the people more fully known. All has been done noiselessly so far. All will continue noiselessly, dispassionately, and justly; but the ruffians who have dyed our streets with the gore of unoffending citizens, and spread terror among the peaceful, orderly and well disposed, must leave or perish. So the PEOPLE have determined Vox Populi! Vox Dei!

Seven to eight hundred persons are under arms now at 10 o'clock Seven arrests have been made. It is reported that there be opposition made, in which case a severe battle is certain. Volunteers are still crowding up.

The District Attorney has entered a nolle prosequi in Walker's case.

Gen. Tracy's division of the militia has been ordered out by the Mayor.

NEW ORLEANS, June 3, P. M.

The Mayor and Council have gone to the headquarters of the Vigilance Committee and read the Riot act. Two companies of militia are engaged in making cartridges. The Vigilance Committee have established signals. Three guns fired from the Arsenal invite their supporters to rejoin to the arsenal to resist an attack.

Later—5 P. M.—The vigilance committee still triumphant. No fight as yet. Cotton bales have been tore up and used for barricading the streets. The city force is an unarmed rabble, with no organization or leader. The Mayor has issued orders to take arms wherever they can be found. Acting upon this order, the rabble broke open and seized weapons in Kittridge's store. It is expected that the Vigilance committee will seize the City Hall to morrow. Bands of armed ruffians are parading the streets. The stores were compelled to close this afternoon. The vigilance committee is supported by most respectable citizens, and the municipal authorities must succumb. A terrible fight is expected to night. The gathering around the head quarters of the vigilance committee is immense.

June 4.—The Mayor's force is still unorganized. All quiet. Great preparations are being made by both parties The Vigilance Committee is commanded by Major J K Duncan late U. S. Army, and is well organized and drilled.

From the Army.

ST LOUIS, June 3.

A despatch from Leavenworth, (1st) says that intelligence from Camp Scott to the 6th of May had been received at the Fort. On that day two Mormons came from the City into the Camp, having despatches from Gov Cummings to Secretary Cass The troops expected to move towards the valley towards the end of May. Nothing was known at the Camp at this date, of any proceedings within the City. The foregoing came by mail to the Fort. The Express man who brought it supplied the following particulars:

He left Laramie on the 18th ult. At Kearney, the commanding officer directed him to inform Col Monroe that he had information that Gov Cumming had been expelled from Salt Lake City, and that the Mormons were in arms and determined to resist the army to the last and requesting Col Monroe to push on as speedily as possible.

This information was received at Kearney through a mail brought by the messenger from whom it was communicated verbally for lack of time

Col Hoffman's command was met 90 miles beyond Laramie He had encountered snow three feet deep and lost many animals. All the rivers were very high. The Peace Commissioner had passed Laramie, and were obliged to swim the Platte at that post.

It was reported that the troops at Camp Scott living on mule meat. No official news received at the fort

Arrival of the Indian.

QUEBEC, June 1.

The steamship Indian has arrived from Liverpool, with dates to the 19th ult. An unofficial dispatch says that breadstuffs were dull, but that all qualities had improved—Wheat to the extent of 2a3d., and Flour 1a2s. Telegraphic dispatches from Bombay, received at Malta, state that Azinghus was relieved on the 15th of April, by General Lugard, with but trifling loss. Brigadier Seaton defeated the rebels near Futtyghur, killing and wounding three hundred, and capturing guns and ammunition. A body of rebels in the Multpoora Mountains, and a large body of Bheels had also been defeated. Five hundred were captured. The British loss was severe, including five officers. General Rose delayed the advance upon Calpee, in consequence of a threatened demonstration of the rebels upon Hansi. A Vienna dispatch says the Montenegrens attacked the Turks, near Grahovon, and nearly annihilated their whole force, killing Commander Kiamil Pasha, and capturing all the guns. The loss of the Montenegrens was two hundred killed and wounded. The Turks numbered seven thousand, and the Montenegrens five thousand. The London Times says rumors prevail in political circles concerning the intentions of France toward Belgium. The conflict between Turkey and Montenegro is growing in political importance. Hostilities, however, have been suspended.

Arrival of the America.

HALIFAX, June 2.

The R. M. steamship America Capt. Moody from Liverpool Saturday, May 22d, arrived at 5 o'clock this morning.

The screw steamship Kangaroo, from N Y., on the 8th of May, arrived at Liverpool on the 22d ult. She carried the mail

The political news by this arrival is of much interest

In the House of Commons Mr. Cardwell had withdrawn his motion censuring the government for the publication of the despatch to the Governor General of India. The Derby minister had thus achieved a virtual triumph.

Another important item of intelligence is that the King of Naples had in effect rejected the demands of England for indemnity to the imprisoned engineers of the Cagliari. Naples was actively proceeding with her military defences.

There is nothing later from India.

A detachment of the telegraphic corps of the Atlantic Telegraphic Company, came in the America, en route to New Foundland to make preparations to land the cable at Trinity Bay.

From Britain.—The reason of the withdrawal of the motion to censure the government, was caused by the reception of a despatch from Sir James Graham, concerning the severity of the proclamation, and Lord Cannings reasons for issuing it. The liberals called upon Mr Cadwell, to withdraw his motion Outrum it appears earnestly protested against Lord Canning's policy, but without effect The Telegraphic fleet had assembled at Plymouth, and would sail on the experimental trip in a few days. It consists of the Niagara, Agamemnon, Valurius, Gorgon and Persephine. The London Times argues that the Clayton Bulwer treaty is permanent, and there is no power on either side to abrogate

The Turkish Government is said to have consented to a settlement with Montenegro in consequence of a despatch from its Ambassador in Paris stating that it the Porte did not arrange it France would formally recognize the independence of Montenegro.

It is stated that the King of Naples has applied to the Czar for a passport. He said he was fearful of France and could no longer be sure that England would continue her policy of conciliation.

Letters from Italy say that various Governments are making preparations against an apprehended demonstration by Mazzini. Rising conspiracies are said to have been discovered in several towns in Spain.

The Turks are said to have had 2,000 killed in the battle with the Montenegrians

Liverpool Markets—Breadstuffs.—Messrs. Richardson, Spence & Co state that the weather continued favorable for the crops and the supply was liberal. Flour was dull; Western Canal 21s a 21s 6d; Philadelphia and Baltimore 22s; Ohio 23s 6d a 25s. Wheat dull and sales unimportant; red 6s; western 6s 3d a 6s 9d; southern white 7s a 7s 2d. Corn dull; 6d lower since last Tuesday; Yellow 34s; White 34s a 34s 6d.

Isthmus News.—The frigate Sarranac arrived at Panama on the 7th of May, with dates from Valparaiso to the 18th, and Callao to the 27th of April. Nothing important. Advices from Guatimala state the cholera is raging with great violence in various parts of the Republic. Advices from Nicaragua state that M Belly, French Agent, is negotiating for a transit route, for which he says sixty millions of francs are already subscribed in France. A British steamer from Greytown reports, that on the 25th of April, Col Kinney made an attempt to capture Greytown, he having hauled down Marquis and hoisted the Nicaraguan flag and taken the Mayor prisoner. The citizens flew to arms and also appealed to Captain Kennedy, of the Jamestown, for assistance. It was granted, and five cutters filled with marines left the Jamestown for shore. Kinney and his party finally surrendered to Captain Kennedy, and were sent to Aspinwall in the British steamer The party consisted of himself, George R Gliddo, R S Taul, Thomas T Bell and A P Dresser.

NEW YORK, May 29.

Another Visitation of an American Vessel.—The brieg J A Taylor, from Sagua, was boarded there, on the eighth, by a boat from the British ship Styx. The officer was asked where from and whence bound. His papers also were examined.

☞ A dangerous counterfeit upon the ten issued by the State Bank of Ohio is now circulating. In the counterfeit, the letter W, in the line "will pay," &c., touches the inside of the left end-piece In the genuine, there is a small space between the letter and the end-piece. Caution should be exercised in receiving the tens upon that bank.

Alarmed.—Some of the papers are seriously alarmed at the proposition contained in the bill of Senator Douglas, giving to the President additional powers for the adjustment of our difficulties with other powers, and enabling him to enforce any demands it may be found necessary to make upon them. They see, or imagine they see in it, a disposition to clothe the President with dictatorial powers; and the Post especially is trouble to understand "what the President has done to entitle him to this extraordinary mark of confidence" Perhaps it would be more fitting, since this is a question affecting the honor of the country, for that sheet to show what the President has done, that Congress in such an emergency, should withhold its confidence. Since the opposition papers, a few weeks ago, pinned their faith upon Judge Douglas, perhaps they will now, as then, repose confidence in his judgment, and "where lies that there is good cause for the reliance which he places in the discretion of the executive.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

☞ The U S District Court of Indiana, in session at Indianapolis, is doing a brisk business in the way of convicting counterfeiters. In addition to some already mentioned, David McNutt and Robert Marshall for five years, and Dr. James Patterson have been convicted, and the trial of Samuel Anderson had not been concluded. In every case a motion for a new trial was made.

During the progress of the case of Patterson, Charles Weaver, one of the witnesses for the defense, swore that the prosecution was a conspiracy, and that he saw one of the officers, in searching the house of Dr. Patterson, place the counterfeit coin where it was found. He was contradicted by some half a dozen witnesses, and immediately upon his leaving the witness stand a complaint was made against Weaver for perjury, before the grand jury, and a bill of indictment found, upon which he was arrested.

Salmon Jones, who is connected with the Exchange Bank at Indianapolis, was arrested there on Friday, on a charge of passing a counterfeit $100 note on the Sandusky City Bank. On his person was found over $200 in counterfeit and broken bank bills, and some bogus coin—Louisville Journal.

A Large Business.—The House of Representatives yesterday passed eighty-five bills, seventeen of which were Senate bills. It is understood they run through the private calendar, and gone to complete a manifestation of devotion to the public interest as to leave little room to doubt the final adjournment on the day fixed. The House passed the army, the Mail Steamer and Post Office Appropriation Bills. A good day's work.—Washington Union, May 29.

Indiana State Credit.—Indiana 6 per cent. Bonds sold in New York, on the 26th of May for 98. This is equal to 103 for a 6 per cent. stock. On the same day Ohio 6's sold at 102; Missouri 6's, 84, being 84 less than Indiana 5 per cent's; Louisiana 6's 92; Virginia 6's, 92½.

The credit of no Western State stands higher than Indiana. This speaks well for the management of the financial affairs of the State, and for the constitutional restriction against increasing the State indebtedness The Auditor issues circulars to the tree banks of the State upon a basis of 83 for Indiana stocks, with a 10 per cent. margin from that. This makes the bank issues based upon our stocks a very safe circulation —State Sentinel.

Troubles on the Border.—We are informed that Governor Stewart telegraphed to this city yesterday requesting Quarter-master General Buckney and Inspector General Buckey to repair to Jefferson city without delay. It is supposed that it is intended to make a call on the militia for the purpose of resisting the invasion of the counties bordering on Kansas by the marauders from that Territory under Montgomery, who are reported to have crossed the line into Bates and Cass Counties, and committed numerous outrages upon the peaceable inhabitants of those counties.

Since the above was written we have received information that the Executive had sent General Parsons, of Jefferson City, up the river with a view of ascertaining the extent of the troubles, and to report whether it will be necessary to call out the military to protect the border counties from the depredations of Montgomery's band of robbers

A gentleman just from the counties of Bates and Cass informs us that he saw more than a hundred wagons and families who had been driven from the Territory, their property destroyed, and in many instances the clothing of the women and children were taken from them. They were perfectly destitute, and the citizens of Independence and that vicinity, were making contributions for their relief This lawless band have driven many conservative Free Soilers men away, whose property has also shared in the common ruin, and who have sought shelter and protection in Missouri It was currently reported at one time that Montgomery and his bandit would invade some of the sparsely populated counties on the border, and great excitement exists.—St. Louis Republican, May 31.

Proceedings Under Kansas Admission Act—It is gratifying to find the reports of bandit outrages in Kansas offset by accounts of proceedings, which promise much better for the peace and welfare of that Territory. The convention provided by the act of Congress, which admits Kansas into the Union, has held its first meeting Its duty is to make preparations for holding the election under that act, as it consists of two decided free-State men or Republicans—the one the President of the Kansas Council, and the other the Speaker of the House—besides the regular Territorial Governor, Secretary and District Attorney, there was reason to apprehend fatal disagreements in the body. It appears, however, on the contrary, that much harmony characterized its entire action at the first meeting On motion of Mr Babcock, the President of the Council, it was unanimously agreed that the election of the Representative to Congress should take place on the first Monday of August next. A committee was appointed to report at an adjourned meeting a plan of proceeding for conducting the required elections. Everything done at the first sitting seems to have been done with the disposition, on both sides and among all the members, to make such discreet and judicious arrangements as would not be fairly open to exception from either or any side. We trust this spirit will govern at all the future meetings of the Board. Its prevalence for the last three years in Kansas would have saved that demagogue-ridden and harrassed Territory an incalculable deal of mischief and disgrace.—St Louis Republican.

☞ The individual who is attempting to make a fuss because Alexis Bright, English and Foley located some land warrants in Iowa, is one D. C. Bloomer, the husband of Mrs. Bloomer, of short petticoat notority. Poor Bloomer is of the genus hen-pecked. His wife must be off on a lecturing or electioneering tour, or a hunting expedition among the Indians and buffaloes, or she never would have permitted her spouse to appear in print. The poor fellow's attempt to wear his wife's pants during her absence will no doubt, be the cause of a loss in the family. Don't treat him too harshly, Amelia.—N. Albany Ledger

Great Pension Fraude.—The United States District Court of Vermont has lately been occupied in trying various parties for frauds perpetrated upon the Pension Department. By a law passed a year or two since, bands are given to those who acted as volunteers at the invasion of Plattsburg and in case of the destruction of record evidence, parol testimony is admitted to prove the service. Under this law enormous frauds have been perpetrated. Their existence was first exposed by the fact that claims had been filed at Washington for over fifty companies of men, when the fact is known that only thirty five companies were employed at the said invasion.

One case, which resulted in the conviction of R. D. Waters, showed forgeries seldom equaled. Rolls of whole companies have been made up by his pen, and such perfect imitation of antiquated documents as to deceive the most accomplished expert, who could with difficulty designate them from genuine records of service. Waters is over seventy years of age.

Another offender is J. C. Burwell, a man of property, having a fine family. He has heretofore sustained a good character, and resides at Barton, in Vermont. He had sent to Washington more than four hundred forged claims.

A Plucky Senator.—The Hon William Chappell, a member of the Wisconsin Senate, received $10,000 of the Lacrosse and Milwaukee Railroad bribe two years ago, and was active in corrupting his legislative associates. The Senate, at its recent session, voted, twenty one to five, that he was guilty, and eighteen to nine that he was unworthy of a seat in the body. He, however, retained his seat. A mass meeting at Watertown, where he resides, held without distinction of party, unanimously requested him to resign. He refused. The Common Council of that city, a majority being his political friends, made a similar request by a vote of seven to five. But Mr C. would not comply. As this plucky Senator will be remembered in History, it is proper to record that he emerged from the State of New York. He is well supplied with brass as well as "the tin."

Terrible Death.—The Omro (Wisconsin) Republican says:

About four miles west of this village, on the afternoon of Saturday last, a man by the name of Mitchell was buried alive by the caving in of a well. The first time the earth gave way it buried him up to his knees: but such was the pressure of the dirt that he could not be got out, even with the help of a windlass. When striving to extricate himself the sand caved in again and buried him up to his waist. His brother in law sprang into the well and commenced throwing the dirt from him, but it continued running in until he was buried up to his neck. His brother in law seeing that the dirt came in faster than he could throw it out, told him to get assistance. When the help arrived they found him completely covered. After digging some hours he was taken out dead. Mr Mitchell was a young man about twenty four or twenty five years of ago and leaves a wife and child

To be Sued for Damages—The Lafayette Journal understands that the relatives of one or two of the unfortunate men who were killed in the recent disaster at Lake Creek, on the Lafayette and Indianapolis Railroad, are about to commence suit against the company for damages. It is alleged that the bridge was notoriously unsafe, and had been so for months previous to the accident. The family of Maloney, the fireman, is left in circumstances of extreme poverty and distress.

Dr. Roback's Theory and Practice.

It would seem that Dr Roback's "Scandinavian Remedies" have taken the highest rank among the standard medicines of the day. His theory is, that in whatever organ disease may show itself, its roots are in the blood. Hence his famous Swedish curative, the Blood Purifier and the Blood Pills, are designed to act specifically upon the sanguineous fluid. One thing cannot be disputed, they produce most salutary effects even in apparently hopeless Individuals who have suffered for years from dyspepsia, scrofula, eruptions of the skin, bronchitis, asthma

Romance in Real Life.—The Bucyrus Journal says that a man living near there lost his wife some years in Homer, N. Y.; that they had a little girl which he gave to a friend and left the country. He was gone ten years and returned, but could find no trace of his child. She had two marks by which he might know her—one was a spot, and she had a scar on her arm. The man gave her up as lost to him, and finally married near Bucyrus and married. The west we go from that paper!

About six weeks ago he happened to pass by the house in which he once resided by a servant girl who had resided with him for nearly two years, at a time when she was about to retire, and the door being open, he saw her first. He merely glanced at it, and happened to notice that the [illegible] of the right foot was missing. He thought nothing of it at the time, but, after returning, the idea struck him that it might be the daughter he had searched for so long. At first he dismissed the thought as improbable, but it still forced itself upon him, until finally he resolved his wife to go to the room and ascertain whether there was or not marks of a scald upon her right arm. She went, and, to his immense delight, reported that the mark was there. The man was so positive as to her identity that the next train conveyed him in the middle of the night was spent as to her origin.

She accidentally let them that she did not know her parents; that her earliest recollections were that she had lived somewhere in the East with a family named [illegible], (naming the family she had been left with by the woman originally intrusted with her,) and at their death she was taken charge of by the Overseers of the Poor, a Mrs. [illegible] for her, and she had come to Bucyrus with a family, and had supported herself by doing housework since.

This tallied so nearly with the already ascertained facts in the case that the next day the Editor started East with her, and, visiting the different points she had named, ascertained, to his great joy, that she was in truth his daughter.

She is an extremely beautiful girl, of great natural intelligence, and though totally uneducated, is at 8 interesting.

She is now at Granville, Ohio receiving an education to fit her for the new station she has assumed in life.

Scratching in Tennessee.—Mention has been made by the Nashville News that frauds of gross character had just been discovered there, as the acts of persons of high position and of official connection. The Gallatin paper of the 22d is more specific, saying that the defalcations run up to vast sums. The chief defaulter is the Secretary of State, Dr T N W Burton, who has "skinned it." The clerk of the Controller's office, also, is charged with stuffing his pockets with rogues when over the wash in sort of small change. The coupons were lying about loose; it is said, to [illegible] to be locked. Dr Burton has heretofore borne an irreproachable character and his lapse will be a source of great mortification to his family and friends. It is attributed to fast living and the toils of gambling.

More Suicides Stopped.—By a recent decision of the Postmaster General, all letters addressed to persons or firms known to be fictitious are to be at once forwarded to the Dead Letter Office, instead of being delivered to any person professing to represent the fictitious concern. All communications addressed to C E Tedt & Co., Huntington & Co., Dr H James, the "Retired Physician," Bennett & Co., Dr Wallace, Dr Le Brun, Dr De Lamar, and a number of other bogus factory, quack medicine, and obscene publication swindlers, will hereafter be sent at once to Washington, and the money they may contain returned to the senders.—New York Tribune.

The Puritans and the Abolitionists.—At the anniversary of the Abolition societies in New York, the following resolution was passed unanimously:

Resolved, That the "revival of religion," which has swept over the country with contagious rapidity during the last three months, is manifestly delusive and spurious, exceptional cases to the contrary notwithstanding, because it has expressly excluded the millions in bondage from all consideration—has multiplied its converts already at the South and the North—has called no opposition in the midst of universal, all abounding corruption and profligacy—has received the sanction and co-operation of the most pro slavery divines and journals in the land—has operated (as it was evidently designed) to strengthen a church which is "the bulwark of slavery," and to divert attention from the work of practical righteousness.

Nebuchadnezzar's Hunting Diary.—A correspondent of the Northern Ensign says a book is shortly to be published by Colonel Rawlinson upon further discoveries he has made. He found Nebuchadnezzar's Hunting Diary, with notes, and here and there a portrait of his dogs, sketched by himself, with his name under it. He mentions in it having been ill, and while he was delirious he thought he had been out to graze like beasts of the fields. In out this a wonderful corroboration of scripture? Rawlinson also found a pot of pre-serves, in an excellent state, and gave some to the Queen to taste. How little Nebuchadnezzar's cook dreamed, when making them, that twenty-five centuries after, the Queen of England would eat some of the identical preserves which figured at her master's table.

Died.—On [illegible] the morning of the 12th inst., Fannie Elnora, youngest daughter of Dr. James N. Banks, aged 4 years and five months.

In connection with the above announcement there is an incident of sad and laughing interest. On rising from her bed in the morning, the child, without anything to call her attention to the subject, went to her father (whose wife recently died) and looking up to his face said: "Pa I want to go where mamma is?" Her father replied so as to divert her mind to other subjects, and the morning passed on as usual. The child went to her play, and was seen between nine and ten o'clock sweeping with a little broom in the door yard. About ten o'clock she was missed.

Search was made for her by the other members of the household, who not finding her, sent word to the Doctor who had gone to his office. He were immediately home and searched for the missing child. Observing the broom lying by a cistern, the cover of which was partly removed, search was made in the water for her body, and after several efforts it was there found. The body was taken out but little Elnora had gone "where mamma is"—Chicago Times.

Tapped by Love.—Moss is a good judge of human nature, and in love ibing men and things, makes use of many quite original figures of speech some of which are more remarkable for force than for grace or elegance. Somebody, on one occasion, was praising a young lawyer as [illegible]—"A smart fellow," said Moss if he didn't think he was about the tongnest man in the country?—"Yes," said Moss, "smart talking man, but [illegible]"—What do you mean by that, Moss?" "Why just this—if you tap a barrel of cider at the very bottom, it always runs [illegible]." That man was tapped too low.

Is that So?—The Baptist Examiner says that sixty per cent. of the money raised for charitable and religious purposes is used in "office expenses," or paying the salaries of those who collect money. If that be so, it will be seen that out of every hundred dollars donated for the benefit of the heathen of Central Africa, sixty dollars are spent in the United States. How not this look a little like robbery?

☞ Our table compiled statistics show that twenty eight thousand five hundred and thirty one "civilized" emigrants, exiles and Yucatan Indians—were set on shore in Cuba since 1853, and that nine thousand eight hundred and four unfortunates lost their lives in transitu—a mortality of sixteen and one fourth per cent. on the gross number delivered!

PILES! PILES! PILES!!

This hitherto intractable disease, of every form and in every stage,

CURED BY EXTERNAL APPLICATION ONLY

Dr. Cavanaugh's

PILE SALVE

WILL never fail in giving immediate relief, and positively curing the worst and most obstinate case of Hemorrhoids or Piles. It is the

for the above disease for the Piles, and the result of years of patient study and investigations.

Sufferers from Piles now have a remedy at hand which will

without the fair of failure on its part to do all the operation claimed for it.

Full directions accompanying each box and all that is requisite is strictly to observe them, and a cure is certain to follow.

The proprietor refers to the following testimonials from gentlemen of character and standing, who have voluntarily given their certificates in favor in regard to its efficacy in their own cases. Read them.

The following is from one of the most reliable citizens of Chicago, the late Treasurer of Cook County Illinois:

Chicago, July 25, 1855.

Dr. Cavanaugh.—Dear Sir—I wish hereby to make known to the all concerned that I have been troubled with the Piles for twenty years and upwards, and at times most severely. And during a recent and exceedingly painful attack, a friend presented a box of your Salve, and asked me to try it on a trial. I did so; not however with the expectation of benefiting my disease, for truly, I had tried so many applications I had lost confidence in all. But in making use of your Salve, I soon found that it was doing me good, and really this impression was so great, that with only about two weeks' use of your Salve, I am so far as I can judge a well man.

I most cheerfully make this statement, believing it due both to yourself and such as may be afflicted with this most painful and trying disease. I do not hesitate to say that I consider your preparation an invaluable remedy for the Piles.

Most sincerely yours, I. N. N. HEALD.

The Hon Richard Yates, late member of Congress from the Springfield, Ill., district, says:

Jacksonville, Ill., Nov. 15, 1856.

Dr. Thos. H. Cavanaugh.—Dear Sir—The preparation, Cavanaugh's File Salve, which you furnished, I found of great service, producing an easy and speedy cure. I do not hesitate to recommend it as an invaluable remedy for the Piles.

Respectfully, RICHARD YATES.

One to two bottles are warranted to regulate a costive state of the bowels.

One to two bottles will regulate all derangement of the kidneys.

Four to six bottles have cured the worst case of dropsy.

Four to five bottles has cured the worst case of piles; a relief is always experienced. What a mercy to get relief in such excruciating disease!

Since its first discovery, I have from time to time added various other herbs to it; of one of them, Hyperacrus, the Pride of Medicine, says "It is an herb of value, and should be in the sign Leo.

"It opens the obstructions of the liver, gall and spleen; it is an especial friend to the liver, worth all other herbs put together; swelling it when too low, and watching it when too cold.

"It cureth an appetite, so that a man and ask the feelings to the pit of the stomach, causeth all pains and stitches to the side.

"It cureth the jaundice by opening the gall, and restoreth the native color of the skin.

"It expels all raw, vicious, and ill-digested matter out of the body, and all foul and sluggish and congealed blood from the kidneys.

"By opening all obstructions of the spleen, it purgeth all burnt choler and melancholy vapors which riseth to the head and brain, causing distracting headaches, fearful foreboding of trouble, the palpitation of the heart, fainting and sounding.

"For he boiled in wine is particularly good to revive the drooping spirits of the aged and whoever has a lingering sickness after a fever, nothing so speedy him to health so quick nourishing the juice of this herb.

☞ The seeds boiled in water cureth the most offensive breath, and, drank at bedtime, preventeth what is commonly called nightmare, and all melancholy dreams, a disease millions people are liable to.

"The Father of Medicine says of another herb in this genus, that 'it is an hero of the Sun, and in the sign of Leo.

"The sun is the source of all life, and exhilarates the heart; and this herb is the best cordial, the greatest strengthener of the heart of any that grows; it comforteth the heart, cureth all palpitation thereof, causeth away trembling, fainting and smothering of it, yet it must be take carefully, or severe grippings will ensue, which must be corrected with fennel seed or ginger.

"So much for this herb, between which and the adder there is the utmost antipathy, so much so that the adder will not touch him that has the herb about him."

☞ No change of diet ever necessary—eat the best you can get and enough of it.

Directions for Use. Adults, one table spoonful per day.—Children over ten years, dessert spoonful.—Children from five to eight years, tea spoonful As no directions can be applicable to all constitutions, take sufficient to operate on the bowels twice a day.
